BIBLE COLLEGE 'PROBLEM' LEAVES Son Steps Into Father's Shoes

By GEORGE MEYER
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — "Every man in the world is sinful, some more than others," says the Rev. Lee Stanford, who became president of the Florida Bible College after his father resigned and admitted he was having an affair with a student. "Men fail," says the Rev. Mr. Stanford. "There was a problem

His father, Dr. A. Ray Stanford, rocked the college he founded 12 years ago by running off last month with a 20-year-old coed.

"I look for only positive things to come from my father's leaving. Certainly the college has a clean record. Our work here is based on Scripture, not on one person," said the Rev. Mr. Stanford, 34.

The elder Stanford, 58, detailed the reasons for leaving the 1,400-student school in this South Florida city in a taped message. The message was played to an assembly Jan. 26, the day after his disappearance. The institution is one of the nation's largest Bible schools.

The faculty unanimously elected the Rev. Mr. Stanford to assume his father's role as the school's leader. The elder Stanford's wife, Sue, 56, also has decided to stay at the school, as dean of women. The Rev. Mr. Stanford said his mother will ask for a divorce soon.

"My father and the girl are voluntarily together. I know she's not in trouble," said the Rev. Mr. Stanford. "I haven't spoken to them. I don't know where they are. I guess they will start a new life. "He who is without fault should throw the first stone," said the Rev. Mr. Stanford. "I'm not going to start throwing stones."

POSTAL RATE HIKE PREDICTED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postal rates will go up by the end of the year and it will cost 12 or 13 cents to mail a first-class letter that now carries a 10-cent stamp, says Postmaster Gen. Benjamin F. Bailar.

"We are experiencing some very substantial cost increases. We are presently operating at a deficit," Bailar said Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

"We are continuing to have experience with the same inflation that is plaguing the rest of the country and we have labor negotiations coming up this summer," he said.

Another postal service spokesman later said the deficit is "in excess of $800 million this year." He said that the total government subsidy for the postal service for fiscal 1974 was $1.7 billion.

"Relatively speaking, we are becoming less dependent on public subsidies," said the spokesman. He explained that during the 12 years prior to postal reorganization in July 1971, subsidies averaged 17.7 per cent of income. In comparison, over the past three years, subsidies averaged 15.4 per cent of income, he said.

The last first-class postage rate increase, from 8 cents to 10 cents, took effect last March. If the rate for first class mail goes to 12 cents, it will have doubled since 1968.

Postal rates are set by a five-member Postal Rate Commission, which passes on rates proposed by the postal service. The postal service can increase rates on a temporary basis while the commission weighs requests for permanently higher rates.

Bailar predicted difficult negotiations with postal workers, whose contract runs out in July, but he said he hopes a strike can be avoided.

Asked if he would recommend calling out the National Guard in the event of a strike, Bailar replied: "I would recommend whatever was appropriate to help keep the commerce in the country on an even keel."

He also said that air mail postage probably will be eliminated in the near future within the United States because almost all first-class mail moves by air anyway.

Bad Weather Closes Some Area Schools

A travelers warning sounded by the Weather Service and conditions that wavered between sleet and rain early today led to the closing of numerous schools in southwestern Michigan.

However, morning temperatures held just above the freezing level and driving conditions proved more favorable than predicted.

All but one K-12 school district in Van Buren county closed, while Watervliet and Coloma closed in Berrien county. The Marcellus system was closed in Cass county, and Fennville, Saugatuck and Allegan were closed in Allegan county. Only the Paw Paw system was open in Van Buren.

Paul Kaiser, Van Buren county road commission engineer-manager, said the early morning rain washed the roads of most of a four-inch snowfall that covered southwestern Michigan Saturday. Some slush remained on secondary roads, but driving conditions were not too adverse today, he added.

The Weather Service also predicted the rain could turn to sleet and then 1 to 3 inches of snow for southwestern Michigan this afternoon.

A mild sleet storm that swept the area Saturday, followed by two to four inches of wet, heavy snow led to dozens of minor traffic accidents in the Twin Cities area and elsewhere across southwestern Michigan.

Between 7 a.m. and 10 p.m. Saturday, the Berrien county sheriff's department was called to 20 accidents, mostly involving property damage only. The Benton Harbor state police reported 12 accidents in that period; Benton township police 15; St. Joseph police 6, and Benton Harbor police 5.

Long Journey Confronts State School Strike Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The school strike bill being bounced around a special House committee may begin the treacherous journey to the statehouse next week, although not in final form.

"The bill will probably be ready for drafting on Friday, so it will probably be another week-and-a-half before we can introduce it," said Rep. William Keith, chairman of the committee creating the bill.

The committee was appointed by House Speaker Bobby Crim to create legislation aimed at avoiding long, drawn-out teachers strikes such as those that occurred in Crestwood and Garden City, Keith's home town.

The committee missed the Feb. 15 deadline Crim wanted them to meet in drafting the legislation which will have a two-year expiration date and covers all public school employees.

But Keith, a Democrat and former school board member, noted, "We want to be very careful. We don't want to hurry and create a bigger problem than the one we're trying to cure."

The key point Keith stresses in talking about the bill's framework is what he says are its attempts to be fair to both school boards and to teachers and to encourage them to negotiate in good faith.

The rough draft provides a limited right to strike for teachers.

Contract disputes that have gone through voluntary mediation and reached an impasse can go to arbitration if either party wants it and if the mediator agrees an impasse has been reached.

If either party agrees to the arbitrator's decision, it will be final and binding on both. If both sides reject it, and if 10 more days of private bargaining fail, the school board can terminate the contract and the teachers can legally strike.

In a legal strike, both sides will be assessed financial penalties if the strike runs long enough to prevent the district from giving students the 180 days minimum instruction required by law.

Keith said the committee will try to make the financial burden for both sides equal. The teachers will lose pay. The formula for determining what the school districts will lose hasn't been worked out yet, he said.

Under the proposal, contracts between school boards and teachers would remain in effect until all mechanisms in the bill from voluntary mediation to arbitration have been exhausted and the teachers go out on a legal strike.

Keith reminded the committee in meetings last week that any bill they come up with is no good if legislators can't swallow it. He

State GOP Doesn't Act Like Loser

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — From the harmony and organization of its state convention, it was hard to tell the Michigan Republican party was the loser in last November's elections.

GOP members sailed through a two-day gathering here over the weekend in a well-orchestrated book-keeping meeting that gave little indication of the party's problems.

The Republicans dealt with off-year internal affairs — but not Michigan's economic woes — in a friendly, cooperative manner usually reserved for happy winners.

In large part, the atmosphere came from a lack of major personality or issue-oriented conflicts. It also stemmed from the fact that party leaders resolved party dissatisfaction before coming here.

But beneath the placid surface, party leaders hinted in convention comments that the GOP is in real trouble and immediate steps must be taken to solve party difficulties if it is to mount a credible campaign in 1976.

Bowing to the complaints of younger members, chairman William McLaughlin — re-elected to a fourth two-year term without significant opposition — outlined the steps the party must take: raise money to increase work at the local level; make the party more attractive to the alienated young, blacks and minorities, and, in general, work, rebuild and recruit.

Because potential conflicts were resolved weeks before, there were no outbursts by dissident members. Friday night's handshaking and partying wasn't even exciting enough to attract U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin. Gov. William Milliken left for a leisurely private dinner. Meanwhile, several U.S.

Senate hopefuls — Congressmen Marvin Eshch of Ann Arbor and Philip Ruppe of Houghton, along with University of Michigan Regent Deane Baker — pressed the flesh and sniffed the wind for scents of approval should they run for the seat now held by Democrat Philip Hart, who may elect not to run.

On Saturday, the delegates listened to invigorating speeches from Milliken, Griffin and McLaughlin before electing their leadership and voting on several "issues."

Griffin stirred partisan juices by blasting the Democratic Congress for "playing penny ante politics" with President Ford's economic and energy proposals. He said Ford is "justified in giving them hell."

"It's a lousy and dangerous way to run Congress in a time of crisis," he said.

Milliken soothingly said things aren't as bad as they could be and called for a commitment to wipe out the party's $345,000 debt. McLaughlin, saying the party was "tired" of being a minority under attack and having a negative image, promised "we'll be back in '76."

In non-binding votes on policy issues, the delegates approved a delay in new federal auto emissions and safety standards and opposed early parole for inmates convicted of violent crimes.

They also opposed closed primaries, in which voters must vote only for members of their own party; state-insured bonds for electric power companies; public funding of statewide elections and the federal Rail Reorganization Act, which would eliminate much truckage in Michigan.

Tigers Draw Niles In 'A'

CLASS A AT ST. JOSEPH

Benton Harbor will be matched against Niles again and St. Joseph will face Holland in the first round of the Class A district basketball tournament next week in the St. Joseph gym.

Results of the tournament drawing held this morning will send St. Joseph against Holland in the opening game Wednesday, Feb. 20, at 7:30 p.m. while Benton Harbor and Niles will play Thursday at the same time.

The district championship game is scheduled for Saturday, March 1, at 2:00 p.m.

Drawings for district tournaments in other classes also were scheduled for today, although some have been postponed until Tuesday because of weather and road conditions.

The Engineer As The Unsolicited Adviser

This being National Engineering Week, an item highlighted by today's special section from the Twin Cities chapter of the Michigan Society of Engineers, brings to mind that the engineer seems to be the last expert who will be called upon to tackle a host of problems he is trained to meet.

Indeed the prospect may be he will not be summoned whatever unless the public finally learns those grappling with the problems may well be the reason for their existence.

The following comment from Congressional Quarterly aptly illustrates the murkiness created in one difficulty by politicians, lawyers and accountants volunteering their services in a field which would better be plowed by the engineer:

"How much will it cost?" is the question on nearly every American consumer's lips in 1975. In the face of deepening recession, rising unemployment, double-digit inflation and chronic energy shortages, the same question is now being asked of the nation's anti-pollution programs, undertaken in the early 1970s when the environment was more sacrosanct than motherhood.

The answer is that no one really knows exactly how much it will cost to clean up the environment, or how much it will cost not to clean it up. Industry spokesmen, many labor leaders and President Ford say that strict environmental standards should be relaxed to stimulate the economy and preserve jobs. Environmentalists, some administration officials and many members of Congress insist that anti-pollution regulations must not be watered down or public health and the environment will suffer costly damage.

Both sides cite favorable statistics to back up their arguments, with the result that the average citizen is thoroughly confused. One might ask, "Why can't wicket makers, for instance, simply tell us how much it will cost per wicket to clean up their wicket factory?" The answers seldom come that easily.

A good example is the automobile, which must meet increasingly stringent federal emission-control standards. Ford Motor Co. maintains that the installation of anti-pollution equipment will add $450 to the price of a Pinto, and that new safety equipment will add another $397.

The National Clean Air Coalition, however, contends that the auto industry inflates its figures. Price data compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics show that from 1968 to 1975, the calculated annual sticker price increases for emission controls were at most $190 and those for safety equipment $225.

Federal standards burden some industries more than others, however. In 1974, according to a survey by McGraw-Hill Publications Co., business planned to invest $7.4 billion in air and water pollution controls; and another $3 billion in occupational safety equipment. In the entire manufacturing sector, that amounted to 10.8 per cent of all capital spending. In the paper industry, pollution control and worker safety costs accounted for 23.7 per cent of the capital budget. For the steel industry it was 22.8 per cent, for nonferrous metals 20.9 per cent, for petroleum 15 per cent and for chemicals 12.5 per cent.

Hard hit industries have responded with a flurry of more than 150 lawsuits contesting Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and other federal guidelines. Paper manufacturers, steelmakers, oil refiners, metal finishers and chemical producers are prominent among the challengers. They charge that the EPA has gone beyond its statutory authority, has based its standards on a few exemplary plants, and has failed to make adequate cost-benefit analyses to determine when the results of additional cleanup are not worth the extra costs.

Indeed, the crucial question is deciding when the trade-offs balance. Removing the last 3 per cent of industrial air pollution, for example, can cost as much as eliminating the first 97 per cent. Irving Kristol, professor of urban values at New York University, has charged, "The EPA proceeds as if its mission were, not to protect Americans from dirty air, but to protect clean air from Americans."

Nixon Transition Ends

Six months to the day after resigning from the most powerful office in the world, former President Richard M. Nixon on Feb. 8, moved yet another step away from the White House. It marked the end of the six-month transition period granted to ex-Presidents, under the Presidential Transition Act of 1963 (PL 88-277). Nixon loses many of the funds and prerequisites provided to help him through the transition, including free postage rights, a federally funded switchboard and operators, and the military detail assigned to protect his residence, La Casa Pacifica, at San Clemente, Calif., although he will retain life-long Secret Service protection.

Also departing was Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's former press secretary and closest personal aide, and Marine Lt. Col. Jack Brennan, who has been Nixon's acting chief of staff. The former President will keep only a small secretarial staff out of the 11 who remained with him through January. Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's long-time personal secretary, has continued to work in the former President's old "hideaway" office in the Executive Office Building next to the White House. She and an assistant have been sorting through papers, memorabilia and other possessions which were impounded by Congress along with the presidential tapes. Although personal items such as Nixon's reading glasses and his collections of gavels and Republican elephants probably were forwarded to him, he may never regain possession of the papers and tapes.

Nixon's life probably will not change drastically even though the $200,000 granted by Congress for the transition period is unlikely to be supplemented by any more federal funds. There are already signs of belt tightening, with Mrs. Nixon doing much of her own gardening work and a group of volunteer Republican women helping to answer mail.

Nixon's plans for the future are uncertain, depending primarily on his health and his public reception as Watergate fades into history. A recent report from his physician, Dr. John C. Lundgren, indicated that Nixon was "looking physically improved" for the first time since leaving the hospital, and might soon be well enough to travel occasionally. Sen. Barry Goldwater (R Ariz.), after a visit to San Clemente, said that Nixon had expressed his desire to return to "the political arena" as a "party spokesman."

SEES BIG CHANGE FOR CHRISTIANITY

Editor: Jeffrey Hart gave a broad description of the westward thrust of European powers beginning with the Renaissance. Sweeping overviews like this are good to see occasionally because average people now as never before ought to begin acting within much larger concepts than we've been accustomed to. The cultures of all Western people have been regarded as nearly synonymous with "Christianity." Anything that affects Christian religion fundamentally will also affect Western cultures profoundly. I would guess there is something in the making, about to break in to "Christianity" with more profound effect than the Protestant Reformation had in the 16th century. A tremendous jolt would be given to Protestant, Catholic, Orthodox and all traditional Christian religionists if a significant number of members should begin to believe that a Babylonian mystery religion has been masquerading under the name "Christianity" for some 18½ centuries.

For about 40 years now, people fiddling with the radio dial on long night watches, or on long car trips have come across the ubiquitous broadcasts of Herbert W. Armstrong or Garner Ted Armstrong explaining year after year something called the plain truth. Those plain truth broadcasts show simply that the real gospel hasn't been preached for 18½ centuries; that the real gospel about the Kingdom of God, which Christ taught, was essentially perverted into a phony gospel about the Person of Christ during the second century. Could anything shake up the Western world more — the whole world, for that matter — than the necessity to rethink its history from the second century onward? All our great ecclesiastical structures would have to give way before the resurgent, Hebrew-Christian knowledge from the first century.

Sincerely,
Harold Freier

Governor Reappoints Upton

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — One man has been appointed and two others reappointed to the State Advisory Council on Mental Health Services; Gov. William Milliken said Friday.

Appointed was Thomas Tucker of Detroit, succeeding the late Dr. George Maniatis of Gladstone for the remainder of a term ending Aug. 31, 1976.

Tucker is a vice president of Campbell-Ewald, an advertising company.

Reappointed for terms expiring Aug. 31, 1978 were David Upton of St. Joseph and Dr. Benjamin Jeffries of Grosse Pointe.

Upton is president of Southwestern Michigan Abstract & Title Co. and is a former state representative. Jeffries is a psychiatrist.

Senate confirmation of the appointments is required.

This coming weekend will be a momentous one in the history of B'nai Shalom Congregation with three days of special events marking the dedication of its imposing and handsome new $350,000 synagogue, built in 1962-63 on spacious grounds at the corner of Broadway and Delaware in Fairplain.

Beginning with Sabbath services at 8:30 Friday evening, the three-day observance will be chiefly of a religious nature. A big fun program will be featured Saturday night and the closing open house will be on Sunday with the public invited.

"I've been robbed!" Or, at least that's what a great many of the 150 police officers and their wives thought who attended the bi-monthly meeting of the Southwestern Michigan Law Enforcement association at the Whitcomb hotel last night.

Featured performer at the banquet was Freddy Caserio, who makes an "honest" living picking pockets. He was present at the reception, mingling, and as he later put it, "quite successfully" with the officers. Among the persons victimized was Sheriff Erwin H. Kibath. Who lost his large, diamond studded badge of office right off his shirt. "Didn't know it was gone," the sheriff ruefully admitted when Caserio handed it back to him. Still another who fell prey to the deft fingers was Detective Andrew Novikoff of the Berrien county sheriff's office. Accepting his pocket watch back from Caserio, Novikoff ruefully remarked that he had gone out to his car to look for it, believing he had lost it.

Congress' Biggest Battle Begins

WASHINGTON — After a few months of mutually agreed truce, the longest war in American history is about to recommence: the battle of the military budget is heating up on Capitol Hill.

Caravans of green limousines are depositing grim-faced men in uniform in the corridors, truckloads of Pentagon papers are being summoned to shore up defenses. On the other side are 535 thoroughly baffled members of Congress. The fight normally is about as one-sided as kissing the dead.

At issue is the taxpayers' money. Some $93 to $105 billion of it, depending on what figures are used. The sum, as New Hampshire's Sen. Tom McIntyre has said, "numbs the mind. If you gave your wife a million dollars and told her to spend $1,000 a day, it'd take her three years. I sometimes can't understand how the military, which requests 100,000 times $1 million can spend it so fast."

The services, however, care little about the McIntyre puzzlement. They are prepared to grapple to the last ditch for the last penny. And what a force they are, when the mission is fighting for money. One estimate has it that from 25,000 to 30,000 military people take part in preparing and selling the budget. Small wonder they are known to routinely overrun the resistance offered by the Joint Armed Services committees, which must take voting recommendations to the full assemblies with less than six dozen staff members participating.

Not that the resistance is all that dedicated. Traditionally committee thinking has been, as one house staffer says, to "take a billion or two off to show the folks at home they're working hard, but otherwise go along." The thinking of the committee majorities, a large proportion of which are also members of the military reserves, is that the nation can't afford to skimp on national defense. The Pentagon maximizes this sympathy, says budget critic and former Army Lt. Col. Ed King, by "telling the committee members all the things that'll scare bejabbers out of them, but saying nothing more than that."

Besides the scare tactics, the Pentagon uses a kind of domestic pacification program to convince the respective committees. Members are regularly invited to top secret briefings, showered with personal attention, and "treated to cocktail parties, dinners and some other portions of the good life the military budget brings about."

In fairness, it must be said that some members of the joint committees are not easily impressed. A few do make almost heroic efforts to slice through the propaganda. But it's far from easy. The amount of relevant information on a single item of the budget could occupy a member's time for a month; no one can spare the hours. "About the best they could do, if they wanted to," says South Dakota's George McGovern, "would be to simply figure the budget is always 5 to 10 per cent too high — and lop off the obvious."

When the issue reaches the House and Senate floors, to be sure some members as McGovern do vote to lop off the obvious. But what's obvious to one may not be to another — and there is precious little time for members to study toward a consensus of the obvious. During budget debate, House members are limited to five minutes of questions each, hardly enough for a meaningful probe. In the end, says a New York representative, "unless you want to get shrill, you have to make a hasty decision based on very limited information. You can't dwell on it forever. There are thousands of other votes you have to make."

Agnew Is Angry With Nixon, Too

WASHINGTON — Former Vice President Spiro Agnew reportedly is extremely bitter toward ex-President Richard Nixon because he believes that Nixon lied to him and betrayed him.

The crux of Agnew's resentment, according to a man who was for many years one of Agnew's closest friends and associates, is a private conversation the two officials held roughly three months before it finally surfaced publicly; a year-and-a-half ago, that Agnew was under investigation for possible conspiracy, extortion, bribery and tax evasion.

At the time of Agnew's downfall, White House spokesmen insisted that Nixon had no prior knowledge of his running mate's problems and played no role in the entire episode. The accumulating evidence, however, now indicates that the version for public consumption was about as accurate and trustworthy as all those denials of White House involvement in Watergate.

The President's duplicity, it appears, extended into his relations with his own Vice President.

Charles Colson, revived the Agnew story the other day in a television interview, in which he observed that Nixon was "very much involved" in the negotiations that led to the final agreement by which Agnew resigned. Colson did not provide details, but he is in a unique position to speak with credibility. It was to Colson's law firm that Agnew came for advice in April, 1973, when it was becoming apparent to insiders that the Maryland probe might reach him. At that time, Colson was still in contact with the President.

Agnew's friend declares the former Vice President is convinced Nixon actively worked behind the scenes to stimulate the investigation, in hopes of distracting the public from the Watergate crimes. He says, however, that this impression on Agnew's part is based more on a visceral reaction than factual evidence.

Agnew is unable to forgive or forget the last secret meeting he had with Nixon, according to the friend. Neither man has ever conceded directly that the session took place, although Agnew admitted with studied casualness at a press conference that he might have mentioned his difficulties to Nixon. "I may have spoken to him very briefly, in the course of other discussions, about it," Agnew said.

When then-Attorney General Elliot Richardson formally informed the President of the investigation, the President gave the impression he was hearing about it for the first time.

In truth, Agnew met quietly with Nixon in May and outlined the pending charges. Agnew bluntly pleaded with Nixon, according to the friend, to intervene and stop the investigation before it became public. He reportedly argued that the President could not afford a second scandal — although, ironically, he had no idea just how bad the Watergate scandal was going to prove to be. (The session was held not long after the resignations of H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman; the Senate Watergate hearings were just cranking up.)

The Agnew friend declares that the Vice President left the Oval Office under the impression that Nixon was sympathetic and would try to help him. Nixon did the opposite; he cut off Agnew and his staff from further White House access.

Galien Drain Charges May End In Lawsuit

GALIEN — Some 30 Galien area residents paid a Berrien county drain assessment under protest Saturday and have pledged to take their complaint into court.

Robert Foster, chairman of the protest group, said St.

Joseph Atty. George Keller will file for an injunction in Berrien circuit court this week in an effort to block disbursement of the taxes until the dispute is settled.

Some members of the group have complained that assessments are not equitable and that some were not notified in advance of public hearings on proposed property assessments.

Thirty of the protesting group appeared Saturday at Galien township hall to pay the charges under protest. Payments were made to Township Treasurer Dorothy Murdock.

The property owners were among 87 who have been assessed varying amounts to pay her $48,594 bill for major improvements to the Second street drain in Galien township and village.

Total cost of the construction was $70,000, with the county, township and village picking up about $22,000 of the bill.

Berrien county Drain Commissioner Harry Nye in May had estimated construction cost would be $30,000.

Property owners are paying amounts that vary from $90 to $3,600, based on previous surveys which determined which lands benefited most by improvement of the drain.

Among those paying the assessment under protest Saturday were James Woollet who paid $105; Mrs. Edith Curry who paid $842; and Richard Chase, $210.

Mrs. Curry lives about a half block from Woollet.

Foster, the chairman of the group, said that he has not yet paid his $610 assessment because of what he termed the "unfairness" of assessments and the project in general.

An elderly woman said she had to withdraw her life savings to pay the assessment and another older woman, Mrs. Leonard Contrell said she simply does not have the money to pay her $1,200 drain assessment bill.

Benton Car-Truck Crash Seriously Injures Three

Three people were injured seriously Saturday afternoon when the car they were riding in collided with a Berrien county road commission truck working on slippery roads.

Benton township police reported the accident occurred at Yore avenue and Meadowbrook road when a car driven by Robert McGee, 24, of 7513 Hillendale road, Sodus township, entered the intersection into the path of a road truck driven by James M. Price, 34, of Eau Claire.

Three people in the McGee car were hospitalized.

Vestus Farmer, 67, of 3872 River road, Sodus, was reported in critical condition at Mercy hospital with a cerebral concussion and possible spinal injuries. William Cooper, 60, of 3846 Naomi road, Sodus, was listed in serious condition at Mercy with a fractured pelvis and fractured ribs.

Ocie May Farmer, 50, also of 3872 River road, was reported in fairly good condition at Memorial hospital with fractured ribs and a collapsed lung.

Another passenger in the McGee car, LeRoy Sangston, 48, also of 3872 River road, was treated and released at Memorial.

McGee, who was not injured, was charged with driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Berrien sheriff's officers reported Linda Sue Schneider, 18, of Baroda, was treated at Memorial hospital Saturday morning after her car skidded off Hollywood road, Royalton township. Miss Schneider told police the car skidded when she swerved to avoid a dog.

Deputies also reported a motorist escaped injury in a crash that demolished his compact car Saturday morning in Watertown township.

James A. Crum, 20, of Bainbridge township, told officers his auto skidded and overturned on a curve on Hennessey road, near North Angling road. The car came to rest against a utility pole, deputies stated. No tickets were issued.

Freezing rain began shortly before 4 a.m. Saturday. It changed into wet snow later in the day as temperatures ranged within a few degrees above and below the freezing mark.

Milliken Reappoints Upton

LANSING — Gov. William Milliken has reappointed David F. Upton, of St. Joseph, to the State Advisory Council on Mental Health Services. Upton, a member of the council since 1970, is chairman of the Berrien County Mental Health board. Last week, his appointment was announced to a new 16-member state panel to study the dispositions of mentally ill people involved in criminal cases. Upton is a former state legislator, president of the Southwestern Michigan Abstract and Title company. Other appointments by Milliken to the State Advisory Council on Mental Health Services are Thomas A. Tucker, Detroit, and Dr. Benjamin Jeffries, Grosse Pointe.

Teachers To Hear Legislator

SOUTH HAVEN — Van Buren county teachers will hear about proposed changes in the Public Employees Relations act Tuesday night at the annual legislative dinner at Fidelman's restaurant here.

State Rep. Bela Kennedy (R-Bangor) will be guest speaker at the dinner sponsored by the area public affairs council of the Michigan Education association, according to Lynn Longley of South Haven, chairman of the area council.

Coloma Park Gets Parent Panel Gift

COLOMA — The Parent Advisory committee on Health and Substance Abuse for the Coloma school district has approved a $100 donation toward development of a proposed Coloma township park.

The park, to be located south of Red Arrow highway, on 7.27 acres of land donated by Jim Hipskind, Coloma township businessman, is a proposed development by the township which has applied for $9,405 in county park and recreation funding.

The parent advisory committee also pledged to continue financial support through fund raising projects for additional park and development. The committee was formed two years ago for the purpose to help create activities for Coloma school district students.

John Gillespie, Kidney Patient, Due Home Soon

John Gillespie, a long-time Berrien sheriff's officer, is a kidney patient at Borgess hospital, Kalamazoo. Gillespie wrote to a member of The Herald-Palladium staff that he's improving and hopes soon to transfer to Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, where a kidney hemodialysis center is opening.

Gillespie said he's very appreciative of the many letters and cards he has received. He's also receiving The Herald-Palladium and the staff joins his multitude of other friends in saying: "Hurry home, John."

John's most recent assignment is investigator for the welfare fraud unit of the Berrien prosecutor's office.

Following is the text of his letter:

I sincerely hope this letter finds you and yours feeling well and enjoying the beautiful winter weather.

What I really wanted to tell you is how much I appreciate the Palladium, even though I get it a day or so late. When you are away from home for an extended period of time, one begins to appreciate more what he really enjoys and looks forward to at home.

With all due respect to the journalists of the local paper here, it does not compare with the Herald-Palladium.

I have been here at Borgess Hospital in Kalamazoo, for three weeks now and my condition seems to be improving each day. I am being kept alive on a kidney machine, as are some 50 other people at Borgess, some with more frequency than others. I hope to soon transfer to Mercy hospital. According to the Michigan Kidney Center, the number of people receiving dialysis in the U.S. is now over 40,000.

I have received so many plants, flowers, cards, letters, calls, offers for help, even money, from so many people. I couldn't possibly afford the postage to thank them all. If possible, I would like to purchase a small space to thank all these wonderful people. The mail carrier of the hospital said I received the largest stack of mail in the entire complex.

JOHN GILLESPIE,
Kidney Patient

Daniel Webster himself would experience difficulty in selecting words to describe how grateful I am to so many people for everything.

Special thanks go to Andy Andrews and Robert Theirbach for their help and encouragement as they, too, have experienced the same problem.

Keep that ink flowing on the paper, and again, I really appreciate your publication much more than I realized.

Palladium people are top shelf.

Sincerely
John Gillespie

Receive Bill For Rejected Truck

WATERVLIET — A $1,343 bill has been received by the fire board here for handling and painting costs on a fire truck ordered but rejected amid controversy in December.

The bill from the Pierce manufacturing company, Appleton, Wis., was received Saturday, according to Watervliet Fire Chief Paul Muth.

It includes an interest charge, an amount to cover lettering and painting and the rest for delivering the truck to Muskegon Heights and back to Appleton. A breakdown of the charges was not immediately available.

The delivery to Muskegon Heights was to the Robert McCaleb dealership where a delegation from the board first began steps to buy the truck.

Spokesmen for the board said the bill would be turned over to lawyers for both Watervliet and Watervliet township for review before any action was undertaken.

The board represents both communities and is made up of representatives from each including Mayor Robert Flaherty and Supervisor Lyle Woodworth.

Flaherty said when contacted yesterday "I felt we could be responsible for paying for the lettering on the truck and for transportation costs."

Flaherty added that the firm could have sold the truck in Michigan, and would not have had to return it to Wisconsin.

"Both Saginaw township and Wyoming, a suburb of Grand Rapids, were interested in purchasing the truck," said Flaherty.

Woodworth said he had not seen the bill yet and could make no comment on it. However, Woodworth said, "I believe we have some obligation toward the matter — we all acted in good faith in the ordering of the truck."

According to Woodworth and Flaherty, should their lawyers tell them the bill, or a portion of it, must be paid, the funds most likely will come from the fire board's operating account.

Last Wednesday, during the monthly fire board meeting, a financial report by Flaherty, the board's clerk-treasurer, showed the joint account in the red by $830.

Muth said Sunday that he may call a special meeting of the fire board to discuss the Pierce bill but would not know the exact day and time until late today.

An additional $300 charge by the McCaleb firm, for providing two men to drive the truck to Watervliet and then back to Muskegon Heights, after the deal was terminated, and for gasoline expenses will be paid for by McCaleb and not be added to the overall expenses, board spokesmen said.

The controversy over the purchase developed after fire board members confirmed that a delegation of the fire board had gone to the Wisconsin plant in mid-October and signed a purchase agreement with the firm for the truck without full board authority and without seeking bids.

The delegation had been flown to Wisconsin by the McCaleb company which was handling the transaction.

Subsequently, the fire board sought bids for the truck, requesting delivery of a fire pumper as soon as possible, a requirement which could be met by the McCaleb company. The bids were later rejected.

Muth, Flaherty, Woodworth and Ernest Richcreek, also a board member, made up the delegation.

Reading Open House

Project Conquest, a clinical reading program, will hold open houses at three Benton Harbor Area schools this week. Adrienne Battistone, project director, said the open houses will be at Northeast school this morning; Martin Luther King, Jr., Tuesday, 7 to 8 p.m.; and Henry C. Morton Thursday, 7 to 8 p.m. She said the programs will consist of a presentation of objectives of Project Conquest, demonstrations of instructional materials and interviews with parents by Stanford Research Institute. Parents and interested citizens are invited. Benton Harbor Area schools are one of three sites in the nation conducting Project Conquest for first through sixth graders who are one or two grade levels behind in reading.

Schedule Retirement Workshop

EAST LANSING — Husbands and wives often enter retirement with very different expectations. To help them better prepare for retirement, three Michigan State university extension specialists will discuss retirement planning at a March 18 afternoon workshop during Farmers' Week at Michigan State university.

The event is sponsored by the MSU Cooperative Extension Service. Married couples, including retirees, should find the session helpful.

Barbara M. Ferrar, assistant professor, MSU department of family ecology, will open the workshop at 1 p.m.

"Studies show that the happiest retirees are those who planned ahead — those who took time in advance to investigate their retirement finances and to develop nonjob interests," Mrs. Ferrar says.

During the session, she will discuss the importance of looking into your financial retirement plan and the possibility of taking steps to supplement your social security benefits. Such benefits lag behind the rise in the cost of living, conservatively estimated at six per cent annually.

To help you budget your family income needs, Mrs. Ferrar will also discuss how to evaluate the adequacy of a fixed income — not only in terms of today's dollar, but in terms of the inflationary dollar.

Eugene O. Peisner, from MSU's department of family and child sciences, will discuss how married couples can develop a marriage of shared interests, based on companionship, before retirement. The aim is to insure lasting family relationships.

MSU agricultural economist Ralph Hepp will pinpoint ways to finance your retirement.

The workshop will be held in room 103 A and B of the Kellogg Center for Continuing Education. Free copies of the Farmers' Week program will be available in early March from county extension offices.

'Talk' Not Vital

Last in a Series of 12

Here are some miscellaneous, but important tips to keep in mind:

Talking to your plants isn't mandatory. It is far more important to provide proper light, check for cramped conditions and bugs, wash the leaves, at home. It needs tropical conditions — up to 60 per cent humidity — to live.

Take hanging plants down at least once a month for close inspection. When they are hard to inspect daily it is easy to miss bugs. And don't hang them too close to the ceiling. Poor air circulation can cause death, when you thought you had taken all proper steps to insure good health.

Glass magnifies and intensifies heat. Don't rest leaves against window glass where they can burn or wilt from intense heat. Also rotate plants a half turn once a week so light distribution is even. Otherwise they will grow towards the light and become lopsided.

Discard a pot when a plant has died in it from disease. It's the safest way to guard against infecting a new plant.

INDOOR GARDENS

remove dead leaves, water and fertilize.

Avoid pretty faces. The aphelandra squarrosa louisae or zebra plant has spectacular shiny green leaves, strikingly veined in white. Its beauty makes it a big seller but it is almost impossible to maintain

Lenten

Meditation

By Rev. Robert F. Andrews
St. Paul's Episcopal Church, St. Joseph
Today's Scripture: II Corinthians 6:3-8

It is so very easy today for the American Christian to feel rather helpless and powerless.

On every side, it seems, we are assailed by the multiple demons of this current age: inflation, recession, unemployment, the threat of war in the Middle East and a war in Southeast Asia which will not go away.

Facing all of this, it is perhaps easy for the Christian to ask: How do I cope? How can I discover during this lent of 1975 the answer to responsible Christian living that will make a difference?

St. Paul, in II Corinthians 6:7 tells us that the Christian lives: "... by the word of truth, by the power of God, by the armour of righteousness."

In a day and age when people seem to want to search in every other direction for salvation and the key to life we must again be reminded that it is to be found only in God's Holy Word, His Scriptures.

During this lent season may we pray for this "power of God" and the "armour of righteousness" about which Paul wrote. With this power and armour, which is the legacy of every Christian, this would can be transformed; beginning with us.

These Lenten Meditations are coordinated by the Berrien County Council of Churches.

Skin Cleansing

Until the last half of the 19th century, most soap in this country was made at home and, until the 1920's, laundry and toilet soaps were almost identical, according to "Family Health" magazine.

Today, of course, soaps are available in numerous chemical and physical make-ups, as well as shapes, colors, sizes and scents. Products on the market fall into several categories: toilet soaps, super-fatted soaps, hypoaerogenic soaps, antiseptic or detergent soaps and heavy-duty cleansing soaps.

Not all cleansers are soaps, as the report said. "A soapless cleanser can rescue hands from contact dermatitis (housewives' eczema) caused by real soap's alkalinity. If you are soap-sensitive, detergent liquid skin cleansers are popular substitutes," it advises.

Whether you use soap or a liquid cleanser, maximum benefits can only be derived if a thorough cleansing is followed by a complete rinse, the report said.

Approach Alcoholism Through New Films

With alcoholism increasing in the United States by 250,000 annually the Temperance Department of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination has stepped up its emphasis on alcohol education.

Latest film to be released by the department, "I'm Sorry, Baby," is going well, reports E.H.J. Steed, director of the department and executive secretary of the International Temperance association. Another documentary film is in the hopper.

Steed says, "I believe the answer to alcoholism must be a positive approach rather than scare tactics. We must show how life can be lived more fully without alcohol, narcotics and tobacco."

Alcoholism, Steed declares, "has become a serious problem. There are eight or nine million alcoholics in the United States today, and each one adversely affects eight to 10 other people — families, fellow workers, other motorists and taxpayers."

The department's program, Steed says, aims at creating an awareness of the problems and of how to live happily without "such crutches" as alcohol, tobacco or other drugs. It does this through production of magazines as well as films, slide programs and posters. All of these, he points out, can be used in schools, fitting into the pattern of reaching the young mind with facts before unhealthy habits are formed.

The new film being prepared by the department, Steed says, will, "among other things, show how parents who use tobacco, alcohol or other narcotics, endanger the well-being of their unborn children."

Other nations are deeply concerned about the problems relating to alcoholism as well as drugs, Steed reports. India, he says, is moving toward prohibition. The Scandinavian countries have begun an all-out battle against alcoholism.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Happy With All Boys

Dear Ann Landers: When I read that letter from the mother who felt guilty because she had five girls and no sons I wanted to wring her neck. Doesn't she realize that the same problem exists for women who produce nothing but boys?

In the first 11 years of our marriage I gave birth to six boys. My husband offered me $5,000 if I'd get pregnant again and try for a girl. I told him to jump in the lake.

To make matters worse, my husband's two brothers had all-boys families. (One four, the other five.) Every time I had a boy, my in-laws, without coming right out and saying so, made me feel as if I had done them a pretty trick.

I thank God for my normal, healthy boys. I refuse to feel even the slightest twinge of guilt. Please, Ann, publish this letter for all mothers who are dissatisfied with the sex of their children. Remind them of the thousands of couples who can't have a family and would be thrilled with either a boy or a girl. Then perhaps they will count their blessings. — Lucky

Dear You: One nice thing about having six sons is that somebody else will be paying for the weddings. Have a good day, honey.

Jim: "All mistakes made at the bridge table aren't costly. Sometimes they boomerang into winning scores. When Joe Conforte of Reno, doubled five diamonds at the San Antonio nationals, he made what should have been a costly mistake, but wound up with a top score."

Oswald: "They sure like to gamble in Nevada. North's two-club bid was artificial and forcing. South's two diamonds a negative response and I guess that when South finally bid five diamonds he sounded like a dying duck."

Jim: "Joe led the spade king, looked over dummy and promptly shifted to the nine of hearts. Five minutes later South had gone up with dummy's ace of hearts, come to his hand with a club, led the three of diamonds and finessed dummy's nine. East was surprised to find his ten of diamonds gathering in a trick, but not too surprised to lead a heart to his partner's king."

Oswald: "South's play was rather illogical, yet not completely so. Joe might well have doubled with the ace-king of spades a singleton heart and five diamonds to the ten. Incidentally, when you next see Joe suggest to him that he should rest on his laurels and not try any more doubles like this one."

I agree they should keep their mouths shut — that's not my complaint. What burns me up is AFTER the word is out and the divorce is in the works, they tell you with a smirk and a half-smile, "I knew about it all along."

A divorce is had enough without finding out that your friends (and relatives) knew what was going on behind your back. You start to wonder, "How many people did they discuss it with?" You begin to recall the parties you and your husband went to together and wonder if your friends were looking at you and thinking, "What a fool!" I've concluded that people who say, "I knew it all along," enjoy stripping you of the last piece of pride you have left.

My advice is, if you happen to know, keep it to yourself — forever. — Trying To Hold My Head Up In Hartford

Dear Ann: I'm a 29-year-old divorced woman who was lonely and became involved with a married man. Before I knew it he moved into my apartment with his two sons, 12 and 14 years of age.

Then I learned he had lied about his wife. She did not die in a car accident. They were divorced and she lives in Florida. He also told me his parents were dead. They live right in this town. He failed to mention he had two older daughters who make their home with his sister.

When I brought up all these things, he said he didn't want to talk about the past. My question: Should I consider marriage to a man even though I can't believe a word he says? — Doubtful

Dear D: It's up to you. Do you want to be married to a liar — a man you will never be able to trust? If so, go ahead.

Please Use Hand Stamp

I hate to dwell on poor Elvis Presley's 40th birthday, but a headline the other day grabbed me. It read, "TWO COEDS POSE AS DOGS IN ATTEMPT TO SEE ELVIS."

At first I thought there had been a mistake in the headline and that Two Dogs Posed As Coeds, but that was not the case. It seems two girls from Mississippi had themselves crated, labeled "Russian Wolfhounds" and mailed themselves to Elvis to cheer him up on his 40th birthday.

What a fool thing to do! Do you realize if they had stamped "FRAGILE" on the crate, they could have been crushed to death in the post office?

We're a mobile society — everything, that is, but the postal department. They could stop a war already in progress.

I base this on a couple of packages I received at Christmas, namely five pounds of cookie crumbs from my sister-in-law in Orlando and a 185-piece glass set from the Libby people. (It's not easy to get that many pieces out of an 8-glass set of tumblers.)

I have never been beyond the counter of a post office, but in my mind I have visualized a whole operation beyond those swinging doors.

Once a package leaves your hand it is put on a cart and transferred to an adjustment conveyor belt. This is where all the packages with messages like "THIS SIDE UP," "FRAGILE," "HANDLE WITH CARE" and "PLEASE USE HAND STAMP" are turned upside down so the directions cannot be read.

From here, the packages go to a little machine affectionately called the Place, Point and Kick. It's a boot-shaped devil that comes down on a package with 50 pounds of metal and boots it into its next cycle called the Fuzzer Wash.

The Fuzzer Wash is a wet sponge that bathes the package making the ink on the address run together so that it is completely illegible.

There are exceptions, of course. One mother I know who had had it with her kids mailed both of them to a non-existent post office box in Fargo, North Dakota.

Even without a return address, she got them back the same day stamped "Insufficient Postage."

Every time I am critical of a human condition, I get mail. I'll probably get mail on this column — but not in this lifetime.

Dr. Lester Coleman

My father just had his voice box taken out because of a cancer. They say that he will recover and be able to speak. Is this possible?

Miss B.H., Maine

Dear Miss H.: It is indeed possible. Many of these courageous patients are able to learn to make sounds shortly after they leave the hospital.

One of the methods is known as the "esophageal speech." By this method, patients who have had their voice box removed are taught to swallow air and "burr" it out, making sounds that are intelligible.

There are a number of battery-operated devices which, when applied to the neck, can help the patient talk.

A new artificial larynx has been devised by Dr. George A. Sisson, at the Northwestern University-McGaw Medical Center.

Dr. Sisson and his colleague, Dr. Fred McConnel, believe that their surgical procedure may make it impossible for the laryngectomized to speak well within a few weeks after surgery.

Malpractice Rates Hurt Rural Doctor

MARLETTE, Mich. (AP) — A "country doctor" who thought rising medical malpractice insurance rates were confined to the city says he may quit his practice because his premiums have climbed 300 per cent.

Dr. Raymond Winfield says he had to take out a loan to meet his insurance payments.

Winfield said he was notified that his annual malpractice rate has skyrocketed from $1,500 a year to $5,000. Winfield has been practicing for 22 years and says he's never had a malpractice suit filed against him.

Winfield, who practices in this small Thumb Area community, said the $700-a-month payments may force him to leave his practice or Michigan and into a teaching job.

He said he's been placed in a higher risk, and therefore higher premium bracket, because he's a qualified surgeon.

"I've got the background and the training, and I'm not just going to limit myself to treating runny noses and diarrhea," he added.

He said he asked the Michigan State Medical Society for help, but the society told him to "sit tight and try to wait it out." The society suggested he increase fees to help pay the higher premium. But Winfield is afraid that if he does, some patients won't be able to afford medical help.

He is one of only five doctors serving 3,000 people in the Sanilac-Lapeer-Tuscola county area.

A group of community residents is trying to attract another doctor to the area, but Winfield told them if they plan to be successful, "they'd better do something to help this malpractice insurance problem."

The insurance firms blame the higher rates on the rising number of suits filed and the increasingly higher amounts of damages awarded by juries.

HUNTED IN KIDNAPING: Man dubbed "Black Panther" because of his dress is thought to be holding Lesley Whittle, 17, an English heiress kidnapped more than a month ago. British police say he also is wanted in a series of post office robberies in the north and Midlands of England and may have become emotionally attached to his victim. (AP Wirephoto)

Some Job Is Better Than No Job At All

DETROIT (AP) — Jobs which many people considered menial in the past are now being gobbled up by those who have lost their better-paying jobs because of the economic crunch in Michigan.

S. Martin Taylor, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, says unless layoffs in the beleaguered auto industry recede, "there is a good possibility that openings in the low pay field also will dry up."

Taylor said MESC statistics show fewer jobs in the $2.25-an-hour range are available now than at this time a year ago.

For example, a Roseville service station manager who ran a newspaper ad for an attendant at $2.25 an hour said he received 300 responses, with about half of them from laid off auto workers who were accustomed to making $5 to $6 an hour.

Retail Security Control, a private guard agency in the Detroit suburb of Southfield, says jobs went begging six months ago. Now the agency says they have no openings.

A new restaurant being built in Clawson reported that an ad for general kitchen help, waitresses and bus boys brought in more than 100 responses.

A Warren tennis club's opening for a part-time maintenance man at less than $3 an hour was sought by nearly 20 men.

Nearly 264,000 of the auto industry's 683,000 hourly workers are on temporary or indefinite layoff this week due to the sharp sales slump. The layoffs have been heaviest in Michigan, which has an unemployment rate of 13.7 per cent, compared to a national jobs rate of 8.2 per cent.

Taylor said many of the persons now out of work have used up their maximum 52 weeks of unemployment compensation.

Negotiations Continue Between Teachers, U-M

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Another round of talks was scheduled today after negotiations between the University of Michigan and striking graduate assistants ended Sunday without a contract settlement.

Talks were to continue at 2 p.m. in a public session, as requested by the Graduate Employees Organization, which represents 1,200 of 2,200 teaching, research and staff assistants at the school.

U-M bargainers said Sunday's 11-hour session produced a near settlement on one undisclosed non-economic issue and "some movement" on other non-economic issues.

Both sides remain farthest apart on wages, a university spokesman said. The assistants struck last Tuesday.

University officials said the walkout has disrupted attendance at the undergraduate College of Literature, Science and the Arts, where many classes are taught by graduate assistants.

Attendance at other university college's were reported at near normal levels.

Tell Of FBI, CIA Overlap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paid informants of the FBI were traveling abroad to spy on revolutionary groups here and overseas, while CIA agents were infiltrating domestic anti-war groups as part of a plan to penetrate the Soviet intelligence system, according to two accounts.

The reported activities showed the overlapping operations of the two intelligence agencies. The CIA is limited by law to foreign intelligence operations while the FBI handles internal security functions.

The Instant It Happened

THE REDS?

In the gilded vale of Wall street, it is a lovely day, one that suggests the kings are all safely in their castles and all's well with the world.

To be sure, the king of kings, J.P. Morgan, is on holiday in England, but son Junius is at work at the House of Morgan, 23 Wall, and other barons are securely within their bastions, their names etched boldly and forever on the granite lintels of their massive counting houses.

The drones, the decimals of Big Money — secretaries, young runners, cloth-capped clerks — are flowing out onto the street for lunch. It is clear, a little cool — 69 degrees — for Sept. 16, but the Trinity church bell at the head of Wall bongs noon reassuringly and the New York Stock Exchange confirms the sense of wellbeing. Stocks are up slightly.

It is 1928, a time of recent peace, time to get back to the business of American business. Even the womenfolk should be settling down now that they had got the vote three weeks before. True, the nation has experienced a rash of bombings, invariably blamed on those vaguely identified as "the Reds," who have even badly damaged the home of U.S. Atty. Gen. A. Mitchell Palmer. But this does not seem to worry the crowds today. Nor the armed guards who are moving $900 million in bullion from the Sub-Treasury building to the Assay office just across from Morgan's. Business as usual.

Few notice an ancient wagon, drawn by an old bay horse, stopped at the curb of 23 Wall. Suddenly it disappears in an explosion of greenish smoke that flings chunks of cut up window sashes into the crowd. Windows half a mile away are shattered. Awnings 12 stories above the street catch fire. An employee of Morgan's is one of 30 killed outright. Junius himself is cut in the instant shambles of the building. He is one of 300 injured, 10 of whom will die.

But most victims are the pawns, not the princes. Such as a mortally wounded young runner pleading for someone to deliver his bundle of securities so he could die with his duty done. Investigations begin almost immediately, adding fervor to the nation's first "Red Scare." But whoever did it, anarchist or what, has not been identified to this day.

And the House of Morgan still stands, shrapnel pocked, bearing its scars proudly or defiantly.

George Schmidt, a photographer with the new picture tabloid, the New York Daily News, was in the paper's office at Park place not far from the explosion. Grabbing his 4x6 Ica Trix camera, he ran to the scene to take this memorable shot of the day they bombed Wall street.

Foster Parents Meet Thursday

Dr. E. DeWain Silvernale, recently-appointed chief of staff at Berrien General hospital, will speak to Foster Parents of Berrien county 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Lakeshore junior high school library, Stevensville.

Dr. Silvernale, a pediatrician who is also associated with Southwest medical clinics, will discuss the "Well Child Compared to the Sick Child." The discussion will focus on certain normal and abnormal conditions for foster parents to look for when a foster child is placed in their home, Mrs. Verduin, Foster Parents president, said.

Foster Parents of Berrien county, organized in September, is a group of 144 men and women working with the county department of social services to provide homes for children who are separated from their parents because of illness, physical or mental abuse, abandonment or retention in an institution.

Anyone interested in foster care is invited to attend the meeting, Mrs. Verduin said.

Coffee Holdback Continues

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Coffee producers have decided against a freeze on sales and instead will continue withholding part of their production through March hoping prices will go up.

"We are not trying to force or threaten and we do not want charity," said Fausto Cantu Pena of Mexico, president of the world coffee producers group. "But we do want some response from the consuming nations."

He said representatives of 42 nations which produce about 90 per cent of the world's coffee decided in a weekend meeting here what would be a reasonable price scale. But "we will not make that publicly known," he added after 18 hours of negotiations Sunday. "That is part of our strategy."

A 100-pound sack of coffee sells for as low as $55 on the New York wholesale market, compared to $77 a year ago.

Here's Quiz For Neighbors

"True or False. People who have children are the most neighborly."

Many of us mourn the passing of the "old neighborhood"; we blame everything from the post war construction boom to the accelerated pace of the modern world that gives low priority to childrearing.

But do we ever stop to ask ourselves if we are good neighbors? This week Family Weekly's People Quiz examines what socio-economic factors affect neighborly relations — with some surprising results!

Read it Saturday in The Herald Palladium.

President Woos House, Senate Face-To-Face

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, after a recent barnstorming stint around the country, is launching a face-to-face campaign for his energy and economic programs among members of the House and Senate.

He has invited the Senate Republican steering committee to dinner at the White House tonight and is planning breakfasts, dinners, receptions every day through Thursday for other legislators from both parties.

The Senate this week may take final action on the House-backed delay in Ford's oil tariff hike while the House Ways and Means Committee is taking final action on a Democrat-sponsored tax cut plan that may reach the House floor next week.

The President was on the road during the past two weeks, traveling to Georgia, Texas, Kansas and New York to make speeches, meet with some two dozen governors and hold news conferences as part of his effort to drum up public support for his programs.

Ford's programs were criticized anew Sunday by Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.

Byrd, appearing on CBS's "Face the Nation," said the President's proposals would "aggravate recession, increase unemployment and have a serious effect on inflation."

Byrd said the Democrats in the Senate will go along with Ford on tax cuts and rebates but will reject the President's energy programs which he said "would increase inflation, recession and unemployment."

Humphrey, speaking on NBC's "Meet the Press," asserted that Ford's programs would "lead this country into further recession, increased inflation and ... more unemployment."

Humphrey also criticized the Federal Reserve Board for restricting the growth of the money supply, and he threatened congressional action to force the Fed to ease up on the availability of credit.

Ford relaxed over the weekend, playing nine holes of golf at a country club in suburban Bethesda, Md., both Saturday and Sunday afternoon.

Ford's golfing companions included William Whyte, vice president of U.S. Steel; Rod Markley, vice president of Ford Motor Co.; and Leon Parma, an executive of Teledyne Co. from La Jolla, Calif.

Ford shot his last two holes Sunday in the rain.

The President and his daughter Susan went to Sunday services at St. John's Episcopal Church across Lafayette Park from the White House.

Mrs. Ford stayed at home. White House physician William Lukash said she was not ailing.

The President and his daughter took home red and white cardboard boxes, distributed for the collection of Lenten offerings for the Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief.

When the President left the church, and his daughter picked up one of the boxes with the slogan "Love Is Doing Something For Someone," the President suggested, "Let's get one for mother, too."

Conservatives Table Third Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of the conservative movement have decided against establishing a third political party now but say they'll continue to study the possibility.

Delegates to a conservative political action conference concluded their four-day meeting here Sunday with approval of a resolution voicing disappointment with the policies of the Republican administration. They voted to set up a committee "to review and assess" conservative options for the future.

Leaders of the conservative movement were virtually unanimous in steering the delegates away from establishing a third party. Many of the 500 grass roots delegates appeared disappointed by the decision.

The conference was sponsored by the American Conservative Union, a lobbying group, and Young Americans for Freedom, a national organization claiming 55,000 members.

Other resolutions approved at the conference included measures favoring a constitutional amendment protecting the life of an unborn child from the moment of conception and opposing the Equal Rights Amendment to the constitution, forced busing of school students and the public financing law for presidential campaigns.

In the key resolution, the delegates said that "the present national leadership of the Republican party has not effectively articulated or represented the conservative sentiment of the vast majority of Republicans."

They also said "millions of Democrats are alienated by the increasingly radical orientation of the Democratic party," and "a growing number of independent voters" reject both current major parties."

"The question of our allegiance to those political parties is a matter of increasing doubt to conservatives. Conservatives have been forced into a political position which leaves us without a serious leadership role in either major party," said the resolution.

In an interview published

Sunday in the Washington Star-News, President Ford said formation of a third political party by conservatives "would probably defeat the real objectives of a conservative movement."

He also said he needs "responsible conservative backing," but said he is not prepared to pay the price of dropping Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller to assure it.

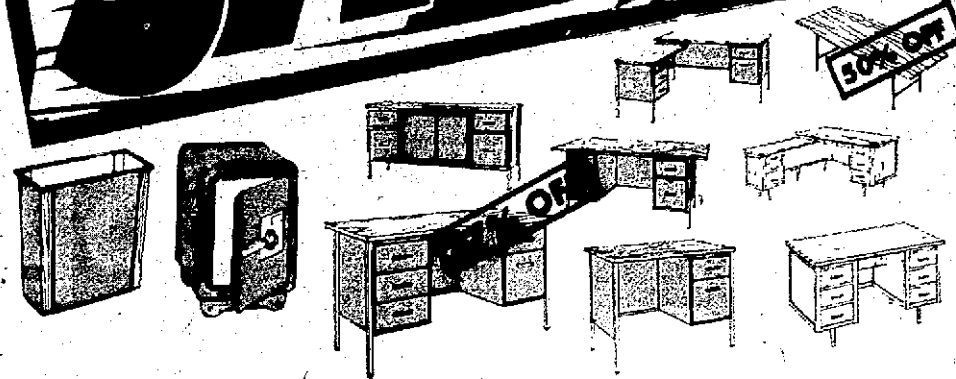

Ford said conservatives are mistaken in portraying Rockefeller as a "flaming liberal." Asked if he was committed to having Rockefeller as his running mate in 1976, Ford said, "I see no reason why he shouldn't be on the ticket."

Too Many 'Pills' Cause Strokes

CHICAGO (AP) — The use of birth control pills significantly increases the risk of stroke in women, according to a followup study of women stroke victims. The study, by the Collaborative Group for the Study of Strokes in Young Women, is reported in today's edition of the Journal of the American Medical Association. The study involved a statistical group of 588 non-pregnant stroke victims from 15 to 44 years old and two control groups matched for age and race. The women were interviewed about contraceptive practices, smoking habits, symptoms of headache and general medical history. This information was used to determine the risk of stroke in women of various ages and backgrounds, taking into account such other factors as high blood pressure, smoking and migraine headache. In all categories, the relative risk of the less severe thrombotic, or blood-clotting, stroke and the more severe hemorrhagic stroke were found to be significantly higher for oral contraceptive users than for non-users.

WASHINGTON (AP) — While government budget deficits mount, a pension formula is starting to cost taxpayers billions of dollars in excess federal employee retirement checks.

Pensions for nearly two million retired civilian and military personnel are supposed to keep pace with the rising cost of living.

But an ingredient added to the adjustment formula five years ago is pushing pensions increasingly ahead of the cost of living in an escalating pattern that could easily cost the government $100 billion by 1990.

The effect of the formula has received virtually no public notice until now and was never projected by the House subcommittee which spearheaded the change in late 1969.

But extensive calculations by The Associated Press show the degree to which federal retirees will have their pensions increased more than the inflation rate in years ahead.

The higher the rate of inflation, the farther ahead retirement checks will go. Even if inflation slackens to a low rate such as 3 per cent a year, pensions will climb faster than living costs.

For an employee who retired in January 1973 at the average retirement age of 57 and lives an expectable 18 years, the intended bonus would be more than $27,500 if inflation proceeded at a moderate rate of about 6 per cent a year.

The law was altered in 1969 because of complaints that pensioners were losing money due to the time lag between increases in the cost of living and the time those increases brought adjustment in monthly retirement checks.

Congress voted that instead of making each adjustment equal to the rise in living costs since the last adjustment, an extra 1 per cent of the previous month's pension would be tacked on to compensate for the time-lag loss. Pension adjustments over the past couple of years have been made about twice a year.

The General Accounting Office had warned of a possible spiral effect, but no one worked out detailed projections of the 1 per cent bonus.

Ralph J. Devlin, top staff assistant on the House Civil Service subcommittee which initiated the legislation, said "the assumption was that it would be a catchup and nothing more."

Transcripts of hearings held at the time bear this out. But by introducing the 1 per cent factor, Congress cranked into the retirement formula a permanent increase to make up for a one-time loss of money. Each time the formula is increased, an extra 1 per cent is tacked on with a financial effect akin to the payment of compound interest. The bonus does indeed compensate for the time lag loss, but also does far more. After two to three years on the pension roll, a retiree no longer has an actual time-lag loss because the bonus factor has pushed his pension well beyond what is needed to keep pace with inflation. Social Security recipients, whose benefits also are tied to the cost of living, do not receive the 1 per cent bonus. President Ford has asked Congress to limit federal pension increases this year along with increases in federal pay and Social Security as part of his plan to fight inflation and recession.

Federal Plan Costing Billions

Pensions Were Too Generous

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The AFL-CIO plans to use its legislative muscle to pressure Congress for a new increase in the minimum wage to help the lowest-paid workers cope with inflation.

Although it is less than a year since Congress raised the pay floor, organized labor will argue that a bigger increase is needed to help workers make up last year's 5.4 per cent loss of purchasing power to inflation. Under new amendments signed into law last May, the minimum wage went to $2.10 for most workers on Jan. 1, 1975, and will increase further in steps to $2.30 by Jan. 1, 1977.

Consumer prices rose an average of 11 per cent last year and, according to the Ford administration, are expected to increase by about the same rate this year.

A push for a new hike in the minimum wage is expected to become a key part of labor's broad economic program for which the AFL-CIO is seeking Congressional support.

This week's meeting of the 35-man AFL-CIO executive council, beginning today, will serve as a follow-up session on proposals adopted last month by the labor federation's general board in Washington.

The council meets in the plush surroundings of Miami Beach every February, and this year is no different, despite the recession that has forced the layoffs of thousands of union members.

The general board, composed of the presidents of all 110 AFL-CIO unions, called for immediate Congressional action "to put America back to work" by enacting tax cuts geared to low and middle income workers. The board also requested more public service jobs, subsidized new home construction and reduced interest rates.

Longer range goals were left for the executive council, which is expected to reaffirm the general board's program and also focus on demands for new trade legislation to protect American jobs by restricting imports. A new push for a national health insurance program to provide health care for everyone also is expected.

With unemployment rising, labor is backing legislation now before Congress that would require the federal government to pay for health insurance of workers who lose their medical benefits when they are laid off.

The labor federation's political fundraising arm, the Committee on Political Education, also is meeting here this week, and while the question of its relationship with the Democratic National Committee is likely to be raised, no drastic changes are expected.

There had been threats in recent months that some AFL-CIO leaders were planning to quit the Democratic committee. But labor sources say that, even though relations with the Democrats are strained, there is little likelihood of wholesale resignations.

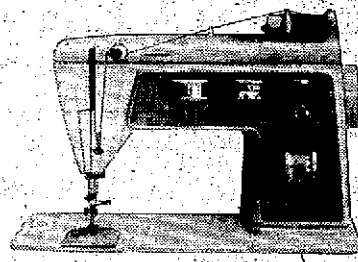

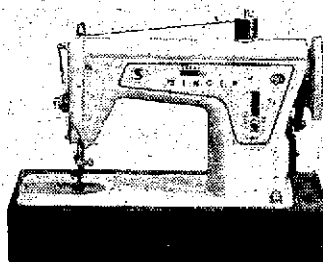

Instead, indications are that most of AFL-CIO President George Meany's colleagues will retain their party posts. But most are likely to play a less active role in the internal workings of the party.

Car Dealers Seek Extension Of Rebate

DETROIT (AP) — Car dealers around the nation want the hard-pressed auto industry to extend cash rebates on new models into the spring because the plans are spurring sales so well.

That would be a welcome move for consumers, who now can save $200 to $600 on some cars until the end of the month in what is believed to be the first full-scale clearance sale in industry history.

According to a nationwide Associated Press survey, dealers say the rebates, scheduled to end Feb. 28, have provided the only bright note in an otherwise gloomy year of tumbling business.

And there is fear that deliveries may drop off sharply in March if Detroit doesn't continue the popular rebate plans.

"The rebates have caused a business boom," said Dick Balch, a Chevrolet dealer in Seattle.

"The rebate program is excellent. I don't think there is any program as strong as the cash rebate. When the world is run by money, it's the strongest incentive. You can't give away radios any more," he added.

A Detroit Buick salesman said: "It only cuts one way. You could shoot a cannon in here before the rebates, and now we're moving pieces. The rebates are bringing people in, and when rebates end I don't see what will take their place."

Dealer pressure for continuation of the rebates and discounts on a broader range of cars — the plans cover mostly small models now — may cause a harsh dilemma for Detroit's auto makers, however.

The companies say the sales slump has eaten into most of their profits and the rebates are costing them dearly. Some estimates put the cost through the end of the month at upwards of $150 million, not including millions of dollars for advertising.

In addition, while the rebates have increased the selling tempo since the record low set in early January, sales remain sharply depressed because of the economic recession and profits continue to erode.

Sales in early February, when 688,501 cars were sold, were at a 13-year low. And, financial analysts expect the four major companies in aggregate to wind up in the red this quarter, an industry first.

Despite that, dealers say Detroit has no other choice but to extend and expand rebates or cut prices.

"We want to see people keep right on buying cars," said Joe Mayo Jr., a dealer in Wichita Falls, Tex. "And if it takes a price cut on the cars that are not moving, that's it."

James H. Sullivan, sales manager of a Ford dealership in Brookline, Mass., said sales will drop off without rebates. "People always are looking for a bargain. It's human nature. They've got a bargain now. If the companies take it (rebates) off and put nothing on, sales are sure to drop."

Terry Higgins, a General Motors sales manager in Columbus, Ohio, added: "GM should do anything to stimulate sales." He said if the companies let the rebates die quietly this month, "everybody will be standing back waiting for something to happen. If I didn't really need a car, I would definitely be sitting back to see what the car companies were going to do next."

UAW-Big Three Eye Extensions For Unemployed

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union is exploring with the nation's auto makers ways to provide extended health and life insurance coverage to a quarter of a million laid off hourly employees.

The UAW's General Motors Council meets on Tuesday and will reportedly consider insurance contingencies should the auto giant's Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB) fund become exhausted. That could happen as early as June if layoffs continue at the present level.

Under contracts with the UAW the auto makers cover the costly insurance premiums as long as the laid off worker is entitled to SUB payments, which guarantee 95 per cent of takehome pay for workers with more than one year of seniority.

The insurance premiums cost the auto makers up to $90 per employ each month.

One union source says GM may make advance payment on some company-paid insurance programs. This could amount to as much as $20 million and would be repaid later by the union. Some 121,000 of GM's 370,000 hourly workers are currently on indefinite layoffs.

At Chrysler, where 51,500 of the firm's 114,000 workers are on indefinite furloughs, the UAW reportedly will suggest this week that the firm use $19 million in untapped SUB funds to pay the premiums. Chrysler has said it would be agreeable to whatever the union suggests.

Laid off auto workers who exhaust SUB credit can continue insurance coverage at the group rate for up to 12 months by making premium payments on their own. After that, they must pay the higher individual rate.

A total of 263,000 auto workers are laid off this week out of a total workforce of 683,000. Indefinite layoffs account for 206,000 of the total. Another 55,405 workers will be on temporary furlough this week as the companies shut 20 assembly plants.

Total layoffs are up more than 10,000 from last week, when the companies had 14 plants shut. Layoffs and plant closings vary from week to week as the companies try to bring their large inventories of unsold models in line with slumping sales.

GUILTY: Dr. Kenneth C. Edelin walks alone from the courtroom in Boston Saturday after he was found guilty of manslaughter in the death of an aborted fetus. (AP Wirephoto)

Boston Abortion Conviction A Far-Reaching Verdict?

BOSTON (AP) — The manslaughter conviction of Dr. Kenneth C. Edelin for the death of an aborted fetus has raised fears among some physicians of new restrictions on abortions.

"The verdict will send shock waves into the medical community," said William J. Curran, professor of legal medicine at Harvard.

"Within the next week it's just going to have shocking impact on physicians and others that are doing any procedures of this kind. It will have an effect all over the country," Curran said.

Edelin, 36, was convicted over the weekend for the death of a fetus during a legal abortion performed in October 1973 at Boston City Hospital.

In Boston, Edelin's conviction clears the way for prosecution of four physicians under an 1814 grave-robbing statute for experiments on aborted fetuses. Asst. Dist. Atty. Newman A. Flanagan said after the verdict that he would turn to the fetal experimentation case, in which indictments were returned last April.

Some doctors fear this case could interfere with research in fetal development and birth defects.

Edelin's trial, which involved complicated medical testimony about when life actually begins, aroused interest because of its implications in the battle over legalization of abortion.

On Sunday, a conference of conservatives in Washington passed a resolution urging a constitutional amendment to protect the life of unborn children from the moment of conception. And John Cardinal Krol, Roman Catholic archbishop of Philadelphia, said of the case:

"Some have expressed concern that the decision may inhibit abortion. We pray to God that it will."

Edelin's attorney has said the case will be appealed, to the Supreme Court if necessary. Edelin appeared on the Black News television program in Boston and said the fact that he is black was a factor in the trial.

FIFTH DEMOCRAT TO JOIN '76 RACE

Sen. Bentsen Makes It Official

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr., a wealthy Texan with more money than tangible political support, today became the fifth formal entrant into the 1976 Democratic presidential race.

"The paramount issue is economic recovery," Bentsen said, declaring he would offer his party and the nation "leadership which is at once candid, unafraid and positive."

Bentsen formally unveiled his candidacy at a news conference and reception in Washington before flying to Houston, Tex., for a second news conference and reception.

In making official his cam-

SEN. LLOYD BENTSEN
Fifth to join race

paign plans that had been obvious for months, Bentsen cited his business and political background, including three terms in the House.

"I believe this blend of private and public outlooks, Washington and non-Washington viewpoints, and legislative as well as administrative experience is what is required of the nation's leadership in the last half of this turbulent decade," the Texas senator said.

Bentsen said "it is evident that our country has been brought to a dangerous point by years of unchecked inflation, the failure to anticipate a deepening recession and a foreign policy ill-suited for the modern world."

Besides providing jobs to pull the nation out of its current economic recession, he said "we must also restore an economic system which provides diversity of opportunity for earning a living and gives meaning to the dream of individual independence."

Sharply critical in recent speeches of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Bentsen said, "We must have a foreign policy which gives as much weight to interdependence as it does to military strength."

He said the Republican administration in Washington "has failed to govern with either wisdom or foresight."

"It has bumbled from crisis to crisis," Bentsen added. "It has reacted to the problems of the moment. It is without specific goals. It is without sensible plans."

He chose a holiday, when few other news events were likely to occur, to announce his candidacy in the Senate Caucus Room, a traditional launching pad for presidential candidates.

Under a Texas law passed in 1960 for the late Lyndon B. Johnson, Bentsen will be able to run for both the presidency and re-election to the Senate in 1976.

In the past 18 months, Bentsen has taken advantage of his job as chairman of the 1974 Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee to travel widely while making little effort to hide his interest in the presidency.

He has raised more than $1 million, much of it from Texas, but has less visible political backing than two other Democrats with comparable financial resources, Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama and Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington.

However, he hopes to appeal to Democrats as a moderate with a business background. As a political performer, he is smooth, articulate and bland.

The 54-year-old freshman Democrat is a former member of the House and a successful businessman.

In becoming a formal candidate, Bentsen joins Jackson, Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., former Gov. Jimmy Carter, D-Ga., and former Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla.

They could be joined soon by Wallace, Sen. Birch E. Bayh of Indiana, former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina and a number of others.

A native of Mission in the Rio Grande Valley, Bentsen was elected to the House at the age of 27 but retired six years later and moved to Houston where he entered business.

He became president of Lincoln Consolidated, a large financial holding institution and held several major corporate directorships before re-entering politics in the 1970 Senate race.

Backed by his state's conservative Democratic establishment, Bentsen unseated liberal Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough in a bitter Democratic primary and then won the general election against Republican George Bush.

As a freshman senator, Bentsen led a battle in the Armed Services Committee to slow development of the Trident missile-firing submarine to give more time to study the necessity of the boat. As a member of the Finance Committee, he played a major role in the enactment last year of important changes in federal pension laws.

Disciplined Niles Officer Has His Stripes Restored

NILES — A Niles policeman disciplined by the Niles safety board because of a complaint filed by a Berrien Springs woman last month got his stripes back Saturday.

The board, overseer of the police department, ordered Elwood (Bucky) Hemphill restored to the rank of sergeant but left the rest of his action against him intact.

The board imposed a 10-day suspension and placed Hemphill on six months probation in addition to busting him to patrolman on Jan. 26.

Board action in January stemmed from the board's finding on a charge of conduct unbecoming an officer. The charge stemmed from a complaint from the woman that improper advances had been made to her while she was being held in the Niles city jail Jan. 20.

Shirley Thurston, 27, 104 West Julius street, Berrien Springs, lodged the complaint after appearing in court on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct.

In a prepared statement issued Saturday, the safety board said its decision on restoring Hemphill to sergeant's rank came as a result of a review of testimony from a hearing Tuesday.

In the hearing, Hemphill, 45, denied making improper advances, but acknowledged he had been in the cell alone with her, despite a departmental rule. He is a 21-year veteran of the force.

Miss Thurston had said she had filed the complaint at the urging of her boyfriend. She said the man, George Evans, had talked about possible civil action later.

Death Not Highway Fatality

NILES — A Berrien county deputy medical examiner has ruled the death of a Niles man involved in a traffic accident south of here Friday night was not caused by the accident.

Niles township police said Dr. John Bruni, deputy medical examiner ruled that William Welcome Low, 78, 2615 US-31 North, Niles, suffered a heart attack and died just before his auto darted into the path of a semi-trailer truck in Niles township on US-31 near Ontario road.

Police had previously ruled the death a traffic fatality — the third in Berrien county in 1975. The examiner's ruling, however, removed the death from the traffic fatality list.

Police said Low's auto pulled from Ontario road onto US-31 about 6:30 p.m. Friday and was struck broadside by a truck driven by Robert J. Thornton, 50, 641 Friar Tuck, Stevensville.

Monroe Lawmaker Backs More Welfare Spending

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) —

Does emotionalism over swelling welfare caseloads and widely publicized incidents of cheating paint an oversimplified picture of a horrendously complicated problem?

One lawmaker — admittedly identified with those who defend ever-increasing welfare spending — says many people still don't realize the valid needs of the unemployed, aged and disabled.

"I don't know how to educate the people that we have a certain class of people who have been left behind," said Rep. Raymond Kehres, D-Monroe. "And I don't know how it happened."

In short, welfare is an intricate problem while at the same time an easy target for attack. Pointing to blatant cheating and abuses critics use the poor as "whipping boys," in Kehres' words.

Given the widespread agreement over the problem and the solution, it is remarkable that so much controversy exists. But economic conditions being what they are, the slightest abuse of welfare is an affront to hard-pressed but self-sufficient citizens.

And they put pressure on the legislature to crack down. "I don't blame lawmakers who vote against welfare," Kehres said. "Beneath the critics' charges of inefficiency, abuse and laxity run the darker stereotypes of welfare — Cadillac, chronic laziness and overpopulation of those on relief."

But critics and supporters alike agree that the genuinely needy should be taken care of and those who aren't eligible should be taken off the rolls. And they agree that the way to do it is by closer verification of eligibility claims and closer adherence to state and federal regulations.

Yet there continue to be shrill attacks on cheaters and loafers. And lawmakers like Kehres believe this only obscures the complicated job to be done.

They question efforts by some groups, such as the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, to promote welfare reform. Adopting a federal study critical of Michigan's system "as the Bible" and addressing groups across the state, Kehres said, "they're waving a red flag" at businessmen already strapped by inflation, recession, high taxes and possible layoffs.

Last week, for example, the state chamber put on an elaborate news conference, complete with buffet lunch, for Lansing reporters. Appearing were the new director of the Department of Social Services, Dr. John Dempsey, and U.S. Welfare Commissioner Robert Carleson, author of the federal study.

Nothing new came out of the news conference, but it gave the chamber, the National Federation of Independent Businessmen and the Michigan Jaycees another chance to promote welfare reform and the Carleson report.

The report itself outlined some $77 million in savings which could be realized by cutting waste and instituting policy changes. It, and widely-publicized error rates concerning ineligible recipients and those overpaid, attracted wide attention.

Kehres estimates that close verification and minimal error rates could save the state about $40 million a year.

But cutting costs involves more than finding cheaters and kicking them off the rolls. For example, do you continue a program to encourage job-seeking by ignoring income earned by ADC recipients in determining their eligibility to stay on welfare? Or do you halt it and remove some of the incentive for finding a job?

Or, do you insist a step-father with a good job take financial responsibility for his new wife's children and cut-off payments to her? Or would that discourage ADC mothers from re-marrying?

These are some of the complications pointed out by Kehres. But the state-welfare program has other worries, too. It stands to lose $6.5 million this fiscal year and $30 million next year if it doesn't meet federal standards for error rates by July 1.

The state must be down to a three per cent ineligible rate and five per cent overpayment rate, or the federal government will cut off the U.S. share of the funds that are wasted above that limit.

The ineligible rate is largely the result of "presumptive eligibility" — taking the applicant at his word without verifying his eligibility. The overpayment problem is attributed to the "Robin Hood" syndrome — the very human tendency of social workers to give people what they need, even if it's a bit above regulation.

Meanwhile, Gov. William Milliken is expected to ask for a supplemental social services appropriation this year of almost $50 million, and the unemployment rate is increasing welfare applications daily.

Milliken has recommended a boost of $110-million — to $936 million — for social services in the 1975-76 fiscal year. That includes a modest estimated ADC caseload growth of 8,000, and a seven per cent hike in benefits — both figures highly likely to go up.

But in Dempsey, Milliken has a reputedly tough manager for the welfare problem. Both Dempsey and Carleson say the credibility of system rests on their ability to get rid of ineligible recipients and cut down on overpayments.

"The vast majority on public assistance are there legally and those are the people we must protect," Dempsey said.

Few would argue with that — least of all Ray Kehres. But, he indicated, it gets harder and harder to remember that through the smokescreen of emotionalism.

Double-Star Phenomenon Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Venus and Jupiter, the briniest bodies in the sky, will seem to meet in a "double star" effect after sundown tonight.

The apparent rendezvous of the two planets occurs annually, but this year the bodies are in an especially good position in the western sky for viewing.

Less than a finger's width of space will appear to separate Venus and Jupiter during the planetary conjunction because of their positions relative to Earth. But in fact they are some 404 million miles apart.

The Griffith Observatory said the planets would seemingly start to move away from each other tonight, but would still provide a vivid show for several days.

PRICKLY: Row after row of cacti and succulents of all shapes, sizes, colors, and textures fill Jacob Swieringa's greenhouse at Crete, Ill. (AP Wirephoto)

Plant Grower Loves Oddities

CRETE, Ill. (AP) — Jacob Swieringa admits he enjoys natural oddities. It's been his fetish for more than 54 years.

Although Swieringa, 67, retired two years ago, he still maintains one of the few greenhouses for unusual cacti and succulents near Chicago.

"I like the odd ones you can't find anywhere else," said Swieringa, who opened his first commercial greenhouse in 1942.

His collection of about 20,000 plants includes the Mile-A-Minute plant, a species that grows as much as a foot a week; the Prickly Pear cactus, a plant that infiltrated many parts of Australia; the Maternity plant that sprouts roots above the ground; the Living Stones that resemble pebbles.

Swieringa said he hasn't had any formal horticultural training but added he learned about raising plants from living on a truck farm and reading books. He said he sells many of the rare plants to university students and faculty members who study botany and biology.

"It's just a matter of learning and experimenting," Swieringa said. "If you love something, it will all turn out well."

Fewer Now Drive To Work

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The percentage of Americans who drive to work has declined five per cent in the last year, and most of those who drive say they could get to their jobs without cars, according to the latest Gallup Poll.

Of the 1,031 adults surveyed from Jan. 10-15, 74 per cent said they drove to work. Similar surveys in 1971 and 1974 found that 79 per cent drove.

The latest poll asked, "If you travel to work, what means do you use to get to work — by car, train, bus, walk, or how?" Seventy-four per cent said they traveled in cars, 7 per cent used buses, 5 per cent walked and 2 per cent rode trains. Five per cent traveled by bicycles, motorcycles or other modes, and 7 per cent gave no answer.

New Service Trains Senior Citizens

A federally-funded program is seeking Berrien county residents who are 55 or over and economically disadvantaged to take part in a work training program.

The Senior Aides program, which began in the Twin Cities area in November, is attempting to employ senior citizens with income below the poverty level, in part-time work-training positions to supplement their present benefits, according to Glenn L. Northup, national program director.

The program intends to enroll senior citizens in primarily community and public service non-profit agencies for training. The program will pay the enrollee $2.10 to $3 an hour during the training period, Northup said, after which the agencies will be asked to hire the trainee. The local program has received $125,000 for the first year of operation, according to Ainsley Blair, local program director, 90 per cent of which came from the U.S. Labor department. The two non-profit organizations sponsoring the

Cypriots Will Fight Partition Of Their Island

NEW YORK (AP) — Four Cypriot leaders say they will fight in the United Nations today any attempt to establish a separate Turkish state on the Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

"Ankara wants to declare a separate state," said Glafcos Clerides, president of Cyprus' House of Representatives. "This is not acceptable to us nor to the international community."

program, the National Retired Teachers association and the American Association of Retired Persons, provided 10 per cent.

The main office of the local program is Suite 1, Peoples State Bank building, St. Joseph, with satellite offices at the Senior Citizens center, 53 Wall Street, Benton Harbor, and the Michigan Employment Security commission office in St. Joseph.

There are currently 20 senior citizens enrolled in the training program, according to Blair, with 20 more jobs currently unfilled. Additional positions may soon be made available from the department of social services and the city of Benton Harbor, he added.

There are 45 Senior Aide programs operating nationwide, according to Northup. Three of them are in Michigan, at Grand Rapids, Escanaba and the Twin Cities.

DISCUSS PROGRAM: Local and national directors of Senior Aides program, which seeks to employ economically disadvantaged senior citizens in work training programs, review plans for program with Benton Harbor Mayor Charles Joseph. Program, which is receiving funds from U.S. Labor department, will pay enrollees $2.10 to $3 an hour during training period after which agencies training workers will be asked to hire trainee. From left to right are Ainsley Blair, local program director; Mayor Joseph, and Glenn Northup, national program director. (Staff photo)

Federal Grant Document Reported Stolen In BH

Documents detailing a $200,000, federally-funded school program, sponsored by People for Peace, were reported stolen over the weekend from an auto parked behind Seely McCord school, Benton Harbor.

The theft was reported to city police at 2 p.m. Saturday by Milton Wells, administrative director of People for Peace.

Wells said the documents are valued at $2,100. He said they are the only set in existence and include the program's budget, applications and correspondence, compiled over the past year-and-a-half.

Wells said the documents were stolen from his car between 6:15 and 7 p.m. Friday. Wells said he and Harold Hampton, People for Peace president, "sent the word out" over the neighborhood, hoping the documents would be returned. The items weren't returned, and police were called Saturday afternoon.

Wells appealed for return of the documents saying they are of value only to officials of Operation Latch Key, a federally-funded after school care program for children.

The program provides cultural, tutoring and recreational activities for children, ages 7 to 12, from 4 to 7 p.m. at Bard and Seely McCord schools.

Wells said there would be no prosecution if the documents are returned.

Also reported stolen from the car were a $150 calculator; an attaché case holding the documents and a Bible, valued at $50.

Wells said a wire apparently was slipped through the window frame to open the locked car.

Wells told this newspaper the value of the documents is based on information they contain and time spent in compiling them.

Wells, 25, is employed by Benton Harbor city as assistant city engineer. He said his People for Peace work is his "after 5 job." Wells said duplicates of the documents were to be made, but this hadn't been done yet.

The $200,000 program began Feb. 3. It started on a $40,000 Model Cities grant, Wells said. He said applications are still pending on another $121,000 federal grant. The remainder of the $200,000 is to be from "in-kind" services from Benton Harbor Area schools. He indicated the program will continue despite the theft.

Berrien Springs Queen Title Won By Cindy Laymen

By JOHN NEITTEBURG

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Of the 19 contestants in the Miss Berrien Springs Blossom contest Saturday night, only one was not a member of the high school senior class and she won.

The new queen is Cindy Laymen, 17, of Pokagon road, daughter of Ivan Layman and Mrs. Donald (Shirley) Schram.

She won the contest before an estimated 700 people in the Berrien Springs high school gymnasium.

Cindy is 5 feet 7, has brown eyes and brown hair, and would like to become a ballroom and polka dance instructor as well as a bookkeeper. She is a cheerleader, vice-president of the junior class, an honor roll student, and a member of the student council.

First runner-up was Vicki Fryman, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Watson, 609 South Mechanic street. Vicki is a senior at Berrien Springs high school.

Second runner-up was Pam Rudloff, 17, and also a senior at Berrien Springs high school. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rudloff, 145 Orchard drive.

Debbie Morales, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morales, 220 Maplewood drive, was selected Miss Congeniality of the contest. She is also a senior at Berrien Springs high school.

The contest with a theme of "It's a Small World," was directed by Mrs. Robert Sill and Mrs. Douglas Fishburn. Master of ceremonies was Ted Cundiff of Berrien Springs, and organist was Carolyn Nichol of St. Joseph.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Karen Anne Carlin, manager of the Playgirl Figure Salon in Mishawaka, Ind.; Kenneth Blackmun, co-owner of Couley and Blackmun insurance agency of Niles, and James Yocum, vice-president of First Federal savings and loan association in Niles.

The other 15 contestants in this year's pageant were Mary Pagel, Tammy Schinske, Debi Stiles, Gail Larson, Julie Yeske, Marge Nelson, Melody Stover, Donna Chenoweth, Vicki Vanderboegh, Kim Fylinan, Patti Temple, Nancy Hampel, Becky Summerford, Brenda Schug, and Caprice Paustian.

The new Miss Berrien Springs will represent her community at this year's Miss Blossomtime pageant April 7 in the Lakeshore high school auditorium.

Two Face Uncased Gun Charge

GALIEN — Berrien sheriff's deputies said the Galien substation said they arrested Floyd King, 26, 4288 Greenwood, Hagar township, and William Linn, 23, 7552 Jericho road, Stevensville, on charges of carrying an uncased shotgun in an automobile here yesterday afternoon.

Deputies said the arrests came after they stopped an auto for a traffic violation on Blakeslee street in Galien about 3:30 p.m.

An uncased shotgun and a pellet gun were found in the auto, deputies said.

Cambodians Quit Mekong Positions

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Government forces have completely evacuated all their positions on the lower Mekong River and temporarily abandoned their attempts to reopen the river, military sources said today.

Two Men Arrested

NILES — A Niles man and a South Bend man were arrested on separate charges of carrying a concealed weapon last night, according to state police from the Niles post.

Police identified the men as Emory Coleman, 35, 2330 East Main street, Niles, and Willie E. Ingram, 45, South Bend.

Coleman was taken into custody about 8:40 p.m. after officers stopped a car on US-12 in Bertrand township on a traffic violation and confiscated a .44 caliber cap-and-ball pistol in the vehicle.

Ingram was arrested about 9:40 p.m. after an auto was stopped for a traffic violation on M-51 just north of Niles. A .32 caliber automatic pistol was confiscated, police said.

Crash Injures Two Policemen, Prisoner

BANGOR — Two Bangor policemen and a prisoner they were transporting were injured early Saturday morning when the police cruiser in which they were riding went over a curb, struck a utility pole and then hit a General Telephone building here.

The two officers, identified by Van Buren sheriff's deputies as Carl Simpson, 30, and Mark Sticksels, 19, were both treated for facial injuries and released from South Haven Community hospital.

The prisoner John Edward Martelli, 20, 5885 Lake drive, Coloma, was listed in fair condition in Borgess hospital in Kalamazoo with a broken neck, according to hospital authorities.

Deputies said Martelli had been arrested by city police earlier in the morning on a charge of being drunk and disorderly and was being transported to South Haven city jail.

According to deputies, the police car was headed west on Monrie street near Morrison avenue about 2:30 a.m. when Simpson, who was driving, turned around to quiet Martelli who was allegedly creating a disturbance in the back seat.

The officer lost control of the car, deputies said, and went off the road striking the building.

Debra Toney Reigns As 1975 Miss Dowagiac

By CLIFF STEVENS

DOWAGIAC — Debra (Debbie) Toney, 18, reigns today as Miss Dowagiac 1975 after being chosen from a field of 35 contestants here Saturday night.

The new queen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Wilson, 310 West street, Dowagiac, and Mr. and Mrs. Leo P. Toney, route 2, Edwardsburg.

A senior at Dowagiac high school, she plans to attend Southwestern Michigan college Dowagiac, after graduation, and plans to become an executive secretary. She has brown hair and brown eyes and is 5 feet 4.

For the contest, she wore an A-line white gown with dotted Swiss overlay trimmed in red lace at the V-shaped neckline.

Selected first runner-up was Pamela Mitchell, 17, daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Mitchell, route 1, Dowagiac and Jerry Mitchell, route 1, Eau Claire.

Second runner-up honors went to Daw Loseth, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Loseth Jr. of Florida. Dawn lives with Mr. and Mrs. James Myers, 206 West street, Dowagiac. Both girls are seniors at Dowagiac high school.

Selected Miss Congeniality by her fellow contestants was Karen Silvia, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph V. Silvia, 210 East Prairie Ronde street, Dowagiac. She is also a senior at Dowagiac high school.

The theme of the contest in the junior high school, sponsored by the Greater Dowagiac Chamber of Commerce, was "Sleeping Beauty." Chairman was Richard Dowsett, an estimated 900 attended.

Judges were Sherry Pletcher, buyer of ladies fashions for Gilbert's Department store, South Bend, Ind.; Thomas McKenzie, president of McKenzie Insurance agency, Paw Paw and Don Halass, buyer of coats and ready wear of Gilbert's Department store, South Bend, Ind.

Master of ceremonies was Pat Smith, manager of radio station WDOH. Entertainment was provided by pianist Mrs. Ronald Benkert and the Dowagiac Jazz Lab band, under the direction of Ken Schutter.

Other contestants were Val Sarabyn; Cynthia Walterhouse, Lee Ann Wilson, Patti Hilden, Patty Clough, Mary Kate Giles, Cynthia Salmon, Terri Donovan, Roberta Headley, Jane Kurlmeyer, Char Ollinger, Jenny Leets, Lorraine French, Vicki Soyder, Lynette Kirkwood, Vanessa Neff, Norine Gander, Barbara Atkinson, Cynthia Green, Michelle Ritter, Marcy Leighton, Cindy Albertson, Judy McIntyre, Kathy Garritano, Diane Pankauski, Jeannie Wasylenko, Karen Swisher, Peggy Gwilt, Jody Gaideski, Karen Stowell and Jill Personette.

The new Miss Dowagiac will represent her community in the Miss Blossomtime competition to be staged Monday, April 7, in the Lakeshore high school auditorium, Stevensville.

Pair Held

BUCHANAN — A Benton Harbor man and a 16-year-old Benton Harbor boy were taken into custody about 10:30 last night shortly after the reported entry of the Albert Kettlehut home at 602 East Smith street.

Arrested on a charge of breaking and entering was a man Buchanan police identified as Clyde Marshall, 23, 885 Superior street, Benton Harbor. The 16-year-old boy was taken to the county detention home in Berrien Center, police said.

Police said they were tipped off to the burglary in progress by Dennis Kettlehut, who was staying in his parent's home while they are in Florida.

The home had been broken into previously while his parents were gone, Kettlehut said.

Police said two people were apprehended outside the house. Two shotguns and a rifle reported removed from a basement gunrack were found near a basement window broken out during the previous burglary, police said.

Tough Trip Facing School Strike Bill

said unlimited right to strike for teachers was not put in the bill because lawmakers in the House and Senate would never agree to it.

The arbitration proposal the committee came up with was considered the fairest and most effective one of several suggested, Keith said.

The committee has rejected attempts to make an arbitrator's decision binding as long as the school board accepted it. "That smacks of being just plain unfair to me," Keith said.

Another proposal that was rejected would have nullified an arbitrator's decision if one side rejected it.

"You just know someone's going to refuse as long as they have that out. Why bother?" Keith said.

Compulsory binding arbitration was rejected because teachers groups and school administrators both said they couldn't swallow it.

Under the committee's arbitration proposal, the arbitrator's decision would have to represent the last best offer of one side or the other on an unresolved item.

Keith said he expects opposition to the bill from all directions. "The current law (which prohibits teacher strikes) has been on the books nine years now, it's been tested in the courts and it's held."

"As soon as we change a word, we've got to start all over again. All this is going to have to be tested again."

"That's why it's important that the public understand the bill we come out with and why we need it."

OPEN HOUSE SET: Open house for new $338,000 Gateway vocational rehabilitation center in Berrien Springs has been set for 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 23. New structure is located at the corner of Sylvester street and Shawnee road.

New Gateway Center Open House Sunday

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau
BERRIEN SPRINGS — A public open house will be held here next Sunday, Feb. 23, at the Gateway vocational rehabilitation center, Gateway, Inc., officials announced yesterday. Robert H. Jones, executive director of the center, said the open house will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. The center is located at the corner of Sylvester street and Shawnee road in Berrien Springs near the public high school.

Announcement of the open house came at a press preview of the new $338,000, one-story building conducted by Gateway officials. In addition to Jones, on hand for the ceremonies were Dr. Dwain L. Ford, president of the non-profit corporation; board member Joseph Yantis, and secretary Miss Noel Gersonde.

Jones said "99 per cent," of the construction work at the center is finished, and work is expected to be completed soon. He said programs have been conducted at the center since November.

Four programs for physically and mentally handicapped persons in the Berrien county area are currently conducted at the center that features 12,785 square feet, Jones said.

He said a sheltered workshop program that enables the handicapped to enter industry is held in the shop area of the center, as well as a work activities center program. In both, Jones said, clients perform jobs subcontracted by the center from area industries.

In addition, the center trains clients in a daily living center that includes instruction in home and self care, Jones said. He said the center also conducts a work evaluation program in which Gateway sells its service of identifying the vocational abilities and potential of the handicapped to the state vocational rehabilitation services department.

The center includes office areas, recreation and activities area, a non-residential apartment for center clients trained in the daily living program, and a shop area for the sheltered workshop and work activities programs.

Jones said the center currently serves about 65 handicapped persons and can train 100 persons.

Dr. Ford said the center still needs about $14,000 to complete funding for the new center and also needs furniture and shop equipment.

The center serves the handicapped who are over 16 years of age, Jones said, and provide vocational training in the hopes of placing at least 50 per cent of its clients in private industry.

The center combines vocational training for the handicapped previously offered at the Maple Grove center in Benton township and the Niles workshop, Jones said.

The center is funded through the United Way campaigns in the twin cities and the Niles-Buchanan area, Jones said. He said additional revenues are also obtained from the services offered by the center to the state vocational rehabilitation services department.

Gateway, Inc., is governed by a 22-member board. Ten full-time staffers are employed at the center, Jones said. General contractor for the new center is Poole Construction company of Berrien Springs.

Iran-Pan Am Scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan for oil-rich Iran to become a major stockholder of financially troubled Pan American Airways has been endorsed by the Ford administration, but still faces further government scrutiny. A joint announcement Sunday by the State Department and the embassy of Iran said the agreement between the Middle East country and Pan Am still requires the approval of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

TRIO JUMPS TO SAFETY

Fire Damages Buchanan's Redbud Inn

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau
BUCHANAN — Fire that ripped through an apartment above the Redbud Inn north of here Saturday morning did an estimated $35,000 to $40,000 damage to the dwelling and the tavern, according to the Buchanan township fire department. Richard Flenar, assistant township fire chief, said yesterday that the fire gutted the upstairs apartment and smoke and water damage was reported throughout the structure located on Red Bud trail north of the city.

Flenar said three people in the apartment were not injured in the blaze, but had to jump to safety from a second story window after hearing an explosion in the kitchen area. The three were identified by firemen as John Britton and Roger Gray, the renters of the apartment, and Pam Allis, address unknown. Firemen said all three were in their late teens or early twenties.

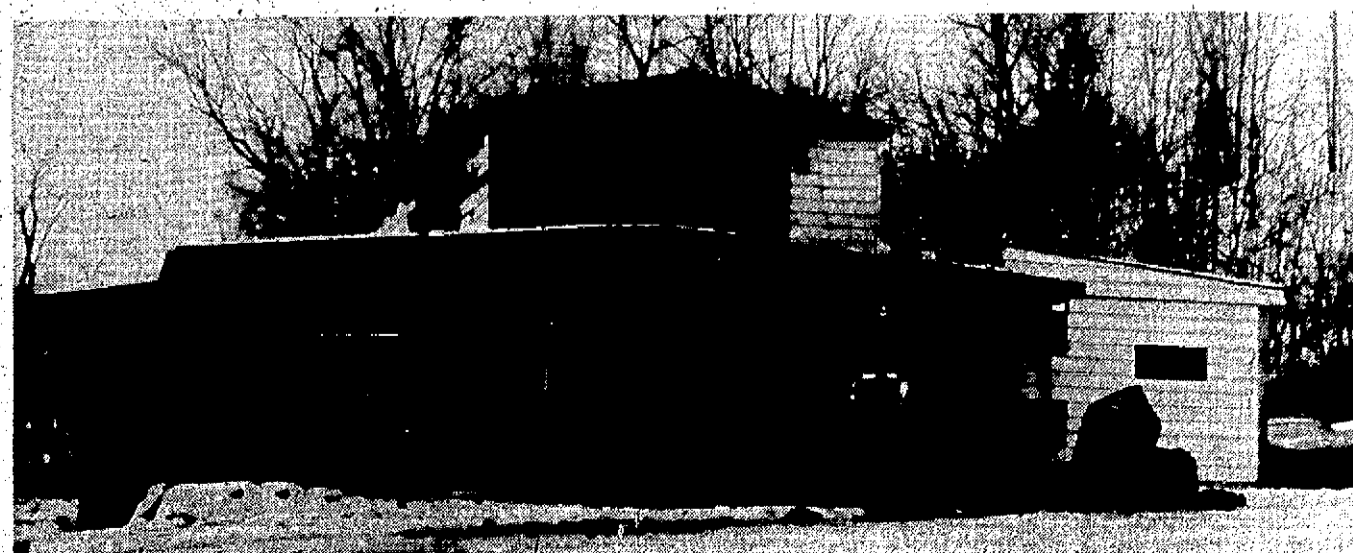

No cause has been determined in the blaze, but Flenar said the "probable cause" of the fire was an explosion in a gas furnace in the apartment's kitchen area.

Owner of the the tavern is James Gideon, 1735 Gulf View, Fairplain. Gideon said the business would be closed until repairs are made and added he expected repair work to begin immediately, weather permitting.

Firemen were called to the tavern shortly before 8 a.m. Saturday after a passing motorist

Hoosiers Should Join Big Ten's Dynasties Tonight

Indiana's undefeated and top-ranked Hoosiers will be out to clinch at least a share of the Big Ten basketball championship tonight and move into a category shared by two previous conference dynasties.

A victory over last-place Wisconsin will give the Hoosiers at least a part of a third straight title, a feat previously achieved only by Ohio State and Michigan.

Ohio State won titles in 1960, 1961 and 1962 and then shared championships the next two seasons. Michigan shared the title with Ohio State in 1964 and then won outright titles in 1965 and 1966.

Indiana won the championship two years ago and last season shared the crown with Michigan.

The Hoosiers will be out for their 14th Big Ten victory against the lowly Badgers, their 26th of the season and their 28th straight over a two-season span.

They were hardly tested by Northwestern Saturday as they rolled to an 82-58 triumph after bolting ahead 48-16 in a devastating first half. Northwestern avoided total embarrassment with a strong comeback in the second half, mainly against Hoosier reserves.

Purdue took sole possession of second place with a 114-91 romp over Illinois; Michigan State rallied to defeat Minnesota 86-81 in overtime; Michigan humbled Iowa 99-75, and Ohio State defeated Wisconsin 76-70 as home teams swept the boards.

Indiana Coach Bobby Knight wasn't concerned over the fact that Northwestern outscored his Hoosiers, 42-34 in the second half, but Wildcat Coach Tex Winter was elated over the comeback.

"I can't complain about our mistakes in the second half," said Knight. "It was hard to keep an edge in the second half after getting up by 32 points. The first-half defensive effort was as good as any we've been involved in. Our players did a good job in getting ready for this game."

Indiana's reputation apparently had something to do with Northwestern's slow start.

"The first half was not indicative of our play," said Winter. "In the first half we were intimidated from the start.

We weren't ready to play against the No. 1 team. I was very pleased with our effort in the second half."

Illinois never has won at Purdue since Mackey Arena was opened in 1967 as the Boiler-makers victimized the Illini for a 13th straight time. Walter Jordan led the attack with 24 points and Bruce Parkinson added 22. Tom Scheffler contributed 16. Rick Schmidt led Illinois with 21 before fouling out with more than seven minutes to play.

Michigan State knocked Minnesota out of a tie for second place as the Spartans rallied from 12-point halftime deficit and forced the game into overtime on Bill Glover's basket with one second remaining in regulation time.

"The intangibles were more important than any game strategy," said MSU Coach Gus Ganakas. "Our desire to win and some breaks we had meant more than any game plan. It's about time we got some good breaks."

Freshman Mark Olberding scored a career-high 32 points, but his effort was offset by Lindsay Hairston with 23 points and Terry Furlow who finished with 20 before fouling out and started the Spartans on their second-half comeback.

Michigan remained in a fourth-place tie with Michigan State as Joe Johnson set a hot 26-point pace in the Wolverines' biggest offensive output of the season.

"My play has been more consistent," said Johnson, who scored 28 points earlier in the season against Michigan State. "When I'm erratic, then the team tends to be erratic. Everybody is starting to put his game together. The key to the whole thing is consistency."

Bill Andreas, still gunning for the conference scoring title, hit for 21 points and Larry Bolden added 19 in Ohio State's triumph over Wisconsin. Dave Koehler led the Badgers with 29 points. Ohio State is now 7-6 in the Big Ten and the Badgers went deeper into the cellar with a 2-10 record.

Wisconsin now goes to the Indiana Monday night with Minnesota at Michigan, Northwestern at Ohio State, and Iowa at Michigan State.

SMASHUP: Cars driven by Dick Trickle (99) of Wisconsin Parids, Wisc., Ron Kosolowski (99) of Pontiac, Mich., and Joe Mihalich (60) of Pittsburgh, Pa., are involved in spinning smashup during early laps of Daytona 500 stock car classic Sunday at Daytona International Speedway. Leader David Pearson later spun out with only two laps to go and Benny Parsons went on to win the race. (AP Wirephoto)

Ex-Taxi Driver Daytona Winner

Pearson Spins; Parsons First

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Benny Parsons was grateful. And if he missed anyone in his thanks for help in winning the Daytona 500, it probably was because he was so choked with emotion.

"The Lord had to be favoring me," said the 33-year-old former Detroit taxi driver, fighting back tears of joy.

David Pearson, one of the giants of auto racing and winner of more than $1.5 million in prize money but never of the Daytona 500, apparently had it all wrapped up when his Mercury climbed the back of Cale Yarborough's Chevrolet and spun off into the grass six miles from the finish.

"Richard Petty was the answer to my prayers," Parsons said.

After the last of three caution flag periods ended with 67 miles to go, Parsons picked up a two-car draft with Petty — increasing his speed and steadily closing in on Pearson.

"Sure, I helped him," said Petty, a five-time winner of this race but plagued by an overheating "Dodge" that required extra pit stops. "I would have done the same for anyone."

Parsons thanked the 110,000-record crowd that wildly cheered him on after Pearson spun, and the crews of most other cars that joined in applause for the likable Chevrolet driver who had hard luck all through 1974 and almost quit the stock car circuit.

"When your fellow competitors cheer for you, it's not a bad feeling," Parsons said.

Parsons led only four laps of the 200 times around the high-banked 2.5-mile Daytona International Speedway. The payoff of $41,405 was his biggest in racing since leaving his father's Detroit taxi business in 1970 and becoming a full-time racer.

Bobby Allison, who said his Matador just didn't reach its speed potential, finished one lap back for second money of $26,700.

Yarborough was third, two laps behind the winner, for $18,850. Pearson rolled in fourth for $17,650.

Ramo Stott finished fifth in a Chevrolet and won $11,650.

The next five were Dave Marcis in a Dodge $10,650; Petty $10,700; Panch in a Chevrolet $8,450; G.C. Spencer in a Chevrolet $7,150; and James Hylton in a Chevrolet $6,985.

Pearson led 68 laps. Buddy

Baker had his Dodge in front 51 laps until it suddenly broke down with 137 miles to go. Petty led 43 early laps. A.J. Foyt was in front 19 laps, but his Chevrolet lacked power and finished 11th.

A spectacular accident only 10 miles into the race took out nine of the 40 starters. The only driver injured was J.D. McDuffie, who had a cracked breastbone.

J.C. Snead Wins San Diego Open

Sudden Death Champ Living With Uncle's Shadow

SAN DIEGO (AP) — J.C. Snead, a playoff winner in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament, has lived in his 33 years in the massive shadow of his famous Uncle Sam.

At times it's been a problem. But now he's learned to live with it.

"Just because my name is Snead, lots of people think I'm somebody I'm not," the one-time pro baseball player said Sunday after defeating defending champion Bobby Nichols and Ray Floyd in four holes of sudden death.

"Sometimes I've had a hard time with it. Maybe somebody had a run-in with my uncle a long time ago and they want to give me a hard time about it."

"They think I'm somebody or something I'm not."

"But it doesn't really bother me any more."

Early in life, the big, easy-going guy stayed away from the game his flamboyant uncle once dominated. He didn't take up golf seriously until he was in his 20s. That was after spending three years as an outfielder in the Washington Senators chain.

"I'd had a good year the year before and they wouldn't move me to a higher classification, so I figured I wasn't gonna make it — that I was just wasting my time."

He worked several years in club jobs before turning to the tour in 1969. He struggled for a couple of years, broke through to two victories in 1971, won again in 1972 and starred on both of the last U.S. Ryder Cup teams.

The last two years have been financially rewarding for him — more than $100,000 in each season — but he didn't win.

"I had a shot at winning seven, maybe eight times last year, maybe four or five times the year before," he recalled. "It seemed that something always jumped up, something always happened. Every time."

"I was beginning to wonder if I ever was gonna win again."

It came the hard way Sunday.

He had to come from five strokes off the pace with a four-under-par 68 in the cold and wind to tie Nichols and Floyd at 279, nine-under-par on the seaside, 7,047-yard South course at Torrey Pines Park. Nichols had a closing 71, Floyd 72.

Nichols dropped out with a three-putt bogey on the first sudden death hole. Floyd took Snead two more holes before he pumped his second shot into the water on the fourth playoff hole. Snead made birdie-four and it was over.

Rod Funseth, who had the lead after 54 holes, went to a 74 in the last round and missed the playoff by a single stroke at 280. Tom Kite followed at 281 after a closing 71.

John Mahaffey had the lead alone with two holes to play but went double bogey-double bogey for a 71 and a tie at 282 with U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin and Billy Casper. Irwin had a 78, Casper 73.

Johnny Miller, the young man who has been the sensation of the tour this season, was fighting a heavy cold and couldn't make it happen this time. He was a factor only at the gate. He finished with a 70-286 and never was in the chase.

Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player did not compete.

Winning nine consecutive games, Connors took the second set and a 5-0 lead in the third before Gerulaitis ended a streak of four straight service breaks.

In his last two matches at the tournament, Connors was unusually subdued on the court. He did little clowning, and even his disputes lacked the usual fury.

"Maybe it was because I didn't feel so well," Connors said. "Or maybe I'm mellowing in my old age — which is very doubtful. That wouldn't be good."

Busy Connors Indoor Champion

SALISBURY (AP) — Jimmy Connors is so much on the go, he hardly has time to stop and count his money.

Not even a $9,000 addition to his bulging bankroll Sunday for beating Vitas Gerulaitis in the U.S. National Indoor Open Tennis Championships and another $11,000 for sharing the doubles crown with Ilie Nastase, could soothe Connors completely.

"I don't have time to relax anymore," said the 22-year-old who is currently one of the hottest properties in sports. "If I'm not here, I'm there and if I'm not there, I'm somewhere else."

"I'm playing too much, too soon in the beginning of the year. I'm going to have to take two or three weeks off, or I'm not going to be much good for the rest of the year."

The enforced vacation won't come right away, however. After a news conference today in Washington, D.C., to promote a later tournament which will benefit cancer research at Georgetown University, Connors enplanes to Boca Raton, Fla., for this week's stop on the indoor circuit.

After biding off a strong bid by Gerulaitis to win 5-7, 7-5, 6-1, 3-6, 6-0, Connors complained of feeling a bit under the weather and added: "It was a day of going out and forcing yourself to win a championship."

When he did, Connors joined Gustave Touchard as the only players to win three consecutive National Indoor titles. Touchard compiled his streak from 1913-15.

The 20-year-old Gerulaitis used sound strategy at the outset, neutralizing the overpowering service return of Connors with a soft service of his own.

Employing that tactic and hitting to the forehand of Connors, the weakest link in the game of the world's No. 1 player, Gerulaitis won the first set and took a 5-3 lead in the second set. With capacity crowd in the Civic Center sensing a possible upset, Gerulaitis suddenly changed his game plan and the momentum changed and Connors gained the initiative.

Winning nine consecutive games, Connors took the second set and a 5-0 lead in the third before Gerulaitis ended a streak of four straight service breaks.

In his last two matches at the tournament, Connors was unusually subdued on the court. He did little clowning, and even his disputes lacked the usual fury.

Strain Showing On Pistons, Scott

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The strain of losing is beginning to show on Detroit Pistons' Coach Ray Scott, who sees the clouds rising for his faltering team.

Scott was ejected Sunday by referee Don Murphy from a game with Kansas City-Omaha when he protested a personal foul and threw his chair onto the floor. Kansas City won the game 102-99, handing Detroit its ninth loss in 10 games. Detroit now is in third place, 5 1/2 games off the pace set by Chicago's Bulls.

The foul which irked Scott was called against the Pistons' John Mengelt. He also argued that a charging foul against Bob Lanier, who led the Pistons with 27 points, should never have been called.

The foul shots which resulted from Mengelt's infraction led the game for the Kings after Detroit had scored 18 straight points to tie the game.

"Back in the NBA office," Scott yelled, "they think the officials are doing a good job when they're not."

"With 38 seconds to go, we're three points down. Now why are we gonna give them a foul? It defies logic. But that's the inequities of the NBA. It's just unbelievable."

Scott said after Saturday night's defeat if the Pistons lost to the Kings the second night in a row, "It puts us in the sunset."

added:

Meanwhile, the Kings are feeling increasingly confident they'll make the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Kings have won 10 of their last 11 games and trail the Bulls by 3 1/2 games.

"We're gonna surprise a few ball teams with our youth," said Nate Archibald, who dropped in 35 points, "and that's going to get us into the playoffs."

Kings Coach Phil Johnson more or less seconded Archibald's remarks. "We're in good shape," said Johnson. "We're not out of the woods yet, however. It still won't be an easy task making the playoffs but we're playing good, smart basketball."

Archibald noted that he and Jimmy Walker have scored 112 points in the last two games, both against the Pistons, and said, "Our defense is much better. We're strong and consistent."

Don Bishop Is Singles Leader

Don Bishop is the singles leader and Rich Stephank and Bob Sieber stand first in doubles in the Blossomland Bowling Association men's tournament at Lakes Bowl.

Bishop rolled a 731, including a 111 handicap, in the opening weekend of singles action while Stephank and Sieber posted a 1351 doubles tally, including a 355 handicap.

Rounding out the top five singles leaders are Jim Meiser 707, Bill Kechkaylo 706, Fred Schalton 701 and Art Fredricks 690.

Other doubles leaders in the unofficial standings are Harold Golladay-Dennis Sliter 1348, Tom Schramm-Dert Deaner 1340, Lindy Arnt-Joe Arnt 1332 and Harry Archer-Norm

Bradshaw 1306.

Schramm is also the all events' leader with a 1984, including a 180 handicap. He rolled a 651 team series, a 702 doubles score and a 631 singles tally.

Standing behind Schramm are Kechkaylo 1975, Golladay 1971, Sliter 1967 and Russ Pultz Sr. 1937.

Aquatics Girls Set Five State Records

CINCINNATI — Three girls from the St. Joseph Aquatics Club set five Michigan age-group swimming records here over the weekend but still failed to win a race in the prestigious Cincinnati Marlins Invitational meet.

Nancy Chinery set records of 1:20.08 in the 100-yard individual medley and 41.23 in the 50-yard breaststroke while placing third and second respectively in girls' 8-and-under competition.

She also was third in the 50 freestyle (33.3) and 100 freestyle (1:13.95) and fifth in the 50 backstroke (40.82).

Andrea Cross added two more records in the 11-12 division while taking second in the 50 freestyle (25.60) and third in the 100 freestyle (58.42). She placed eighth in the 100 butterfly in 1:04.59.

Kathy Williams produced the final record in the 13-14 age group with a fifth-place clocking of 1:10.0 for the 100 backstroke.

Lancers Earn Share Of First Blossomland Mat Title

Lakeshore got a piece of the Blossomland conference wrestling title Saturday night for the first time in the school's history.

"We're happy to win it," said Lancer coach Bruce Bittenbender, whose team tied with Brandywine for the overall league title. "We would've liked it outright, but we're not complaining."

The Lancers had the best dual record of any league team (8-0) and were second in Saturday's tournament held at Brandywine with 114½ points. The Bobcats mustered 122 points and had four individual champions. Brandywine had a 5-1 league record.

The Lancers had six individual champions, two second places, one third and two fourth place finishers.

Lakeshore captured titles in the first three championship bouts, with the 96 pound crown going to Terry Runge, the 105 title to Scott Hosnedl and the 112 pound championship to Tom Rennhack.

Rennhack blanked Brandywine defending champ

Murray Wilson 4-0.

Joe Offet (138) won a championship for the Lancers as did Mark Krager (155) and heavyweight Stan Schuck.

Krager won a Blossomland title two years ago, while Schuck knocked off defending heavyweight titlist Marc Hettig of Coloma in the finale.

Schuck, losing 5-0 with just 15 seconds to go in the last period, reversed Hettig and scored a nearfall on him to tie the match 5-5 and send it into overtime. There, he won convincingly 7-1.

Buchanan's Jeff Bailey was the 145 pound champion, while Edwardsburg's Greg Mock (167) took a title.

"Brandywine had more balance than us," explained Bittenbender, "and their marginal kids came through for them." The Lancers had hoped for more help from Edwardsburg and Coloma which never came.

Lakeshore and Brandywine clashed in six championship bouts, with the Lancers winning four of them.

Brandywine coach Don Arend felt his Bobcats and Lakeshore both deserving of sharing the champion role. "On any given night these two teams wrestled it'd be close," he said.

Final standings (based on Saturday's tournament showing and dual records) showed Lakeshore and Brandywine with 13 points, followed by Buchanan (9), Coloma (8½), Edwardsburg (9½), River Valley (4½) and Cassopolis (2½).

The Big Six meet held Saturday in Dowagiac was won by defending champ Portage Central (11) followed by Dowagiac (10), Niles (9), Portage Northern (6) and St. Joseph and Loy Norrix (3) tied for fifth.

The Chiefs won the tournament meet Saturday with 98 points, with Central taking second (92), Niles (74) third and St. Joe last with 27.

Central won the conference title on the strength of its 5-0 dual meet record. Dowagiac was 3-2 during the regular season.

Four Chiefs won titles with Randy Pompey (155) successfully defending his crown. Jeff Vanhusan (119) was a champion along with Kirk Patzer (138) and Kurt Wiesemes (112).

Jeff Melvin (98) of Dowagiac was second along with Dale Killarney (132) and Jim Murray (145). Thirds went to Jim James (126), Mike Leets (167) and heavyweight Marty Smallbone. Bob Rutherford (185) was fourth.

St. Joe got its first conference titlist ever when senior Steve Cyok captured the 185 pound crown. Nap Ramirez (105) was fourth for the Bears, along with Gary Trainor (119), Dick Goodman (145) and heavyweight John Pickar.

Defending Wolverine champion South Haven had to settle for fifth place in this season's tourney held in Allegan Saturday.

"We're young and inexperienced and have a long way to go," said Ram coach Gary Steudle.

Wolverine conference Vicksburg is this year's champion with a combined tourney and dual meet point total of 16½. Gull Lake and Allegan (15) tied for second; with the Rams fifth (8½) and Paw Paw eighth.

Gull Lake won the tournament with 94 points Saturday, but their dual meet record did not allow them to top Vicksburg in the final computations. Vicksburg was second Saturday.

South Haven had two titlist in brothers Gary Perysian (98) and Nyle Perysian (119). Both won two of three bouts on plus.

Gary pinned Jeff Weesner of Plainwell in the finals ... a wrestler undefeated in the conference this season.

Gus Thaler (132) was third for South Haven, while defending conference champ Dave Wolfert (112) placed fourth.

Paw Paw sophomore Ralph Boyer surprised a lot of people finishing as runnerup at 185 pounds.

"He's only been a wrestler for a little over a month now," says his coach Terry Kannegieter. Boyer lost in overtime when he twisted his knee and couldn't continue.

Jeff Burkett (145) took third for the Redskins.

COLOMA — Coloma snapped a six-game losing streak here Saturday night, downing Hartford 94-62 in non-league basketball.

"We're real happy with the win," said Comet coach Jon Wolcott whose squad handed Hartford its 15th straight loss.

Nearly everyone scored for the Comets, who shot to a 10-0 lead and were out front by 22 early in the third quarter.

Much of the Coloma success came because of a relentless press which caused 30 Indian turnovers. Hartford committed 10 floor errors the second half, on their way to 7 points that frame.

"That was the turning point of the game," noted Wolcott. "We were able to capitalize on many of those turnovers."

Dennis Schreiber led the Coloma scoring assault with a game-high 26 points. Gregg Woodward chipped in 18 points to the Comet cause. Three Hartford players struck in double figures. Bob Wallace popped in 15 points, followed by 14 from Mark Wallace and Mike Parker.

Coloma bagged 35 of 68 (51 per cent) of its field goals and connected on 14 of 29 (48 per cent) of its free throw attempts. Hartford shooters found the hoop on 25 of 68 shots for 39 per cent. The Indians sank 12 of 25 (48 per cent) of their free throws.

The Comets dominated rebounding 49-45 with Woodward hauling in 19. Schreiber 15. Mark Wallace had a dozen caroms for the visitors.

Coloma is now 3-14 with the victory. Hartford 2-15 with the loss. The little Comets won the jayvee contest 50-38 with Keith Penoyer getting 16, Dennis Nitz 13 and Rich Scherer 10 for the winners. Duane Toney had 12 points for Hartford.

Goalie Waived

TORONTO (AP) — Goalie Dunc Wilson of the National Hockey League's Toronto Maple Leafs has been placed on irrevocable waivers and will be available for the $50,000 waiver price until Saturday.

Leafs General Manager Jim Gregory made the announcement following the Leafs' 2-2 tie against Montreal Wednesday night. Gregory said he has tried without success to trade Wilson, who hasn't played since the team returned from a poor West Coast road trip last month.

PARDON MY REACH: Lake Michigan College forward Andrew Atterberry reaches around Southwestern Michigan College's Steve Cooremman (51) and sends the ball up to the hoop. Atterberry tossed in 15 points as LMC won the game 84-77 to avenge an earlier loss to the Roadrunners. Poised for a possible rebound is Lake Michigan's Tom Seely (33) while Dale Blackman (12) looks on. (Pete Mitchell photo)

Taylor And Walker Lead LMC By SMC

"It's nice to win one in the friendly confines of the Napier Street gym," said Lake Michigan College basketball coach Art Crump after his Indians had turned back Southwestern Michigan College 84-77 Saturday night.

Crump and his players want to savor this victory a while, since their previous home conquest came exactly one month prior to the win over the Roadrunners.

"We played together much better this time," noted the LMC coach, "and were able to work the ball inside."

Defense was another strong suit for the winners who were able to keep SMC away from the bucket. "This was one of our more spirited efforts," added Crump, "and we needed it."

Lake Michigan played a physical game, especially so in the first half. The eventual winners were ahead at the intermission 42-35.

The game was actually further apart than the score would indicate. LMC had fashioned a 17 point lead with 3:40 to go. Subs then flooded the floor for the home team, allowing the Roadrunners to pull within 7 by the end of the game.

Lake Michigan had three players in double figures, led by John Taylor with 23 points. Reggie Walker bagged 20 and Andrew Atterberry 15.

Matty Bush and John Singer each scored 19 for the Roadrunners who got a dozen points of out Craig Brown.

The winners hit on 33 of 67 (49 per cent) of their field goals and matched this with 53 per cent free throw accuracy (18 of 34).

SMC poured through 36 of 84 (43 per cent) of its field goals, and five of 15 (33 per cent) from the charity line.

The visitors won the rebounding 43-39 with Wayne Batteast hauling in 10 while Taylor had an equal number for LMC. The Indians were generous when it came to turnovers — they committed 30 floor errors to 22 for SMC.

Lake Michigan is now 4-10 in the conference and 9-17 overall. The Roadrunners are 7-7 in the league, and 11-8 overall.

Crump calls this year's schedule the toughest LMC has had. "We have one goal," says the coach, "and that's to win two games in a row." The Indians are down to three games in which to realize that objective.

Red-Hot Bulls Bump Braves Jazz Enjoys Last Laugh

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Milwaukee Bucks had a laugh going at New Orleans — a 17-point lead after three quarters, a 10-point bulge with four minutes to go.

But the players on the New Orleans Jazz weren't laughing. Instead they throttled the Bucks' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar with solid defense, reeled off 11 consecutive points and pulled out a stunning 103-101 upset over the Bucks Sunday night.

"The only way you can get the other team to miss is to play defense and we're gradually beginning to do that," said Jazz Coach Butch van Breda Kolff, whose team posted its 10th victory against 49 losses.

The triumph means that even if New Orleans fails to win another game all year, it will not equal the National Basketball Association's record for futility set by the Philadelphia 76ers in 1972-73, when they won just nine games all year.

Guard Louie Nelson and forward Nate Williams led the Jazz rally, which erased an 88-71 deficit in the final period. Williams tallied 10 points and Nelson eight as the Jazz outscored the visitors 32-14 in the final 12 minutes.

Milwaukee was ahead 89-89 with four minutes left, but New Orleans poured in 14 straight points for a 103-89 lead. Abdul-Jabbar's dunk at the buzzer left the Bucks two points short.

Nelson topped the Jazz with 27 points. Abdul-Jabbar had 33 for Milwaukee, which dipped two games below .500 and 7 1/2 games behind the pace-setting Chicago

Bulls in the NBA's rugged Midwest Division.

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, the Chicago Bulls downed the Buffalo Braves 114-99, the Washington Bullets beat the New York Knicks 125-104, the Seattle SuperSonics topped the Los Angeles Lakers 109-87, the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the Houston Rockets 100-85 and the Kansas City-Omaha Kings edged the Detroit Pistons 102-99.

Norm Van Lier scored 21 of his 29 points in the second half. Chet Walker netted nine points in the final four minutes and center Nate Thurmond blocked a pair of shots near the end that insured the Bulls' 24th victory in the last 33 games.

McAdoo led Buffalo with 40 points. Bob Love topped Chicago with 31.

Elvin Hayes poured in 33 points and grabbed 14 rebounds. Kevin Porter had 22 points and 11 assists and Wes Unseld contributed 18 rebounds for Washington, which outscored the Knicks 28-2 in eight minutes of the second half. It was New York's fifth straight loss.

Spencer Haywood scored 24. Leonard Gray 22 and Fred Brown 20 for Seattle, which had lost five of its last six starts. Cazzie Russell topped Los Angeles with 24.

Dick Snyder, Jim Chones and Bobby Smyth combined for 50 points for Cleveland, which moved 1 1/2 games ahead of Houston in their battle for second place in the Central Division. Snyder led the Cavs with 21.

Dearborn Team Tops In Doubles

Ed Finke and Joe Miglio of Dearborn took over first place in the doubles standings at the Knights of Columbus bowling tournament going on at Blossom Lanes.

The two accounted for a 1401 series. Third place is currently held down by Alvin Oliver and Ed Nowak of Ann Arbor who had a pin fall of 1349.

Another doubles change for seventh place was the twosome of Ed Thomas and Tom Pfister who had a 1331 total.

Larrieu, Stones Smash World Records

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
"I keep amazing myself," said distance queen Francie Larrieu.

"I was shooting for a record both nights, but this is really better than I expected."

Whatever Francie wants, it seems, Francie gets. Friday night in Toronto she turned in a 4:10.4 clocking for a world record in the 1,500-meter run. And Saturday night in San Diego she captured the mile in 4:29 for another world mark.

The 22-year-old UCLA senior bettered the 4:34.6 indoor mark she set six months ago and also was six-tenths of a second faster than the outdoor record set two years ago by Paolo Pigni of Italy.

In the men's mile at San Diego, Filbert Bayi, the 21-year-old Tanzanian, didn't set a world record, but he didn't miss by much — posting the third fastest indoor mile in history. Bayi's time was 3:56.4 — just 1.4 seconds off Tony Waldrop's world mark — as he beat New Zealand's John Walker and middle-distance specialist Rick Wohlhuter.

It was Wohlhuter's first loss in more than a year.

Joni Huntley, a freshman at Oregon State, won the high jump in 6-2 and Herm Frazier of Arizona State captured the 500-yard dash in 55.9 seconds in other highlights of the San Diego meet.

Dwight Stones, the 6-foot-5 high jumper from Long Beach

State, shattered his own world record for the fourth time this year Saturday night in the U.S. Track and Field Federation's national indoor championships at Oklahoma City.

Stones soared 7-3 1/2 on his third attempt to better the 7-5 1/4 mark he'd set a week earlier, then confided he knew all along he would do it.

"Before the competition ever started I went over to the meet director and told him I was going to break it. I was pretty sure."

Wilson Waigwa, a native of Kenya who runs for Texas-El Paso, turned in the USTF meet's other top performance by winning the mile in a snappy 3:37.

At the Knights of Columbus meet in Cleveland, 18-year-old Houston McTear, a Florida high school junior, captured the 60-yard dash in a brisk six seconds flat.

Olympian Marty Liquori won the mile in an unimpressive

4:05.3, almost 10 seconds slower than his strong showing two weeks ago in Philadelphia, and said he didn't plan to run indoors anymore this season, preferring to prepare for the outdoor campaign.

Mike Bolt, a Kenyan running out of Eastern New Mexico, won two races in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletic championships in Greensboro, N.C. Bolt won the 880 in 1:55.4 and 30 minutes later the mile in 4:17.

Owens Bags 12 In Church Win

Church of God downed St. Joseph Methodist 26-14 in YMCA church league basketball with Mark Owens scoring 12 points for the winners.

Tim Strunk popped in 21 points to pace the 43-14 win by Methodist Peace Temple over St. Joseph Congregational. Brad Gough had nine for Congregational.

Rodney Paxson bagged 10 points for Presbyterian which took Stevensville Methodist 31-21. John Cook paced Stevensville with seven points.

In the girls' league, Mariene Leuty fired in 13 points to lead Benton Harbor to a 20-15 victory over Methodist Peace Temple. Peace Temple took St. Joseph Methodist 19-7 with Kathy Shiffrin getting eight for the winners.

Central On MAC Hot Seat Now

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The game of Russian Roulette, basketball style, continues for another week in that Mid-American Conference scramble.

For six straight weeks, the leader on Monday has lost at least one game. The latest contender to feel the hex was Miami of Ohio, a 78-74 victim at Central Michigan Saturday.

So it's Central Michigan's turn as the new MAC pacesetter. The Chippewas, 8-3 and .031 ahead of 7-4 Bowling Green in the race, visit Toledo Wednesday and play at home against Ohio University Saturday.

Miami's loss tumbled the Redskins into a three-way tie for third place with Western Michigan and Toledo at 6-4.

Bowling Green seized the No. 2 spot with a 65-57 overtime verdict over last-place Kent State. Western Michigan fought off defending champion Ohio 76-72 before a regional television audience and Toledo slipped by Eastern Michigan 78-64.

In nonconference tests Saturday, Georgia Southern downed Ball State 88-75 and Illinois State trounced Northern Illinois 107-78.

Two free throws each by Jim Helmink and James McElroy in the last 1 1/2 minutes gave Central Michigan its margin of victory, atoning for a 26-point walloping suffered earlier at Miami.

Dick Parfitt, Central Michigan's coach, was cautious afterward.

"Toledo is the only game left on our schedule now," he said. "We can't look ahead past them."

Cornelius Cash scored seven of his 11 points in overtime to lead Bowling Green past the revived Flashes. The Falcons outscored Kent State 11-3 in the extra five minutes to avoid an upset.

Toledo mastered Eastern

Riggins Powers Bangor Victory

BANGOR — Curtis Riggins scored 26 points and Mark Wilson added 10 as Bangor defeated Lawrence 34-45 in the opening round of the 12th annual Bangor junior high basketball tournament here Saturday.

In other game, defending champion Mattawan bounced South Haven St. Basil with Todd Sosotowski scoring 18 points, Saugatuck downed Bloomingdale 36-22 with Larry Kelly scoring 15 and Jeff Mieser 10 and Coloma edged Gobles 25-21.

David Beeching scored 15 points and Jim Groth 10 for Lawrence while Kraig Smith had 10 for Gobles.

Semifinal pairings match Bangor and Saugatuck at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday and Coloma and Mattawan at 7:45 Thursday. A 6:30 consolation contest will precede each game.

Michigan at the foul line, sinking 20 of 28 to only 6 of 10 for the Hurons. Larry Cole scored 19 points for the Rockets, Bob Riddle 17 for the losers.

Western Michigan's victory, snapping a 17-game conference road losing spell for the Broncos. Jeff Tyson paced Western Michigan with 24 points; two more than the Bobcats' Walter Luckett.

Junior High Students Law Day Essay Contest Deadline Is March 15

LANSING — As the nation's bicentennial celebration begins, hundreds of Michigan junior high students will be competing in the Third Annual Michigan Law Day Essay contest with the theme, "America's Goal — Justice Through Law."

Prizes of $100, $75, $50 and $25 U.S. Savings Bonds will be awarded in each of the seventh, eighth and ninth grade categories. All seventh, eighth and ninth grade students in public, private and parochial schools in Michigan are eligible.

Entries in the contest consisting of 300 words or less, must be submitted no later than midnight, March 15.

"An impressive wave of new interest in our courts is evident among young people today," says Mrs. Theodore P. Ryan of Lansing, chairman of Law Day activities for the Lawyers Wives of Michigan, joint sponsor of the statewide contest with the State Bar of Michigan. The Bar's Law Day Committee is chaired by Mrs. Pamela Liggett of Detroit.

"Young people today don't take laws for granted. They are testing the validity of our laws and considering what could be done to improve them. More and more students are visiting law-making bodies such as the State Legislature and City Councils to see lawmaking in action."

"Our essay contest is an effort to further stimulate that youthful probing and questioning. Young people's input into our legal structure is imperative for the nation's future growth," adds Mrs. Ryan.

The criteria for judging the essays is: (1) originality of ideas, (2) sincerity of purpose, (3) clarity of expression, (4) accuracy of information, (5) cohesiveness of theme and (6) ability to follow directions of the Contest.

The 12 winners of the essay

Film Maker To Get Award

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The first news came to Jean Renior from the French consulate in New York: "Congratulations on your special award from the Motion Picture Academy."

The illustrious 80-year-old film maker still hasn't received official notice from the Academy, but he is enjoying warm messages from friends all over the world.

He will be honored at the 47th awards April 8 with a special Oscar, being cited as "a film maker who has worked with grace, responsibility and enviable competence through silent film, sound film, feature, documentary and television."

It is the ultimate award for a man whose life has been full of honors. He says he is especially pleased because the Oscar signifies "my absorption by the American cinema." He is already the acknowledged master of the French cinema, and one or more of his films appear on any critics' poll of the 10 all-time greatest.

Renior lives with his wife, Dido, in an airy, pink hillside home in Beverly Hills.

On a recent day, Renior was sitting in a wheelchair in the living room, which is dominated by a full-length portrait of himself as a boy, painted by his father, Pierre Auguste Renior.

"I hope I can make it to the awards," said the director. "The doctor said I will be walking soon, and I would not want to appear in a wheelchair. I have been in the hospital, you see, with the aggravation of an old wound. It was on April 17, 1915, that my leg was struck by a German bullet."

"The bone was badly damaged and over the years I have had problems with it."

Renior has made his home in California since 1941, returning to France for films after the war.

JEAN RENIOR
Award On Way

"Why do I live here?" he mused.

"The first reason is that I have a son, Alain, who is a professor at the University of California at Berkeley, and I have grandchildren. And I have many friends here."

"Yes, I miss things about France, but when I am in France, I miss things about America."

Another thing he likes about America: contact with young people.

"I get letters from many of them, including some who want to make films," he said. "What do I tell them? If you have the urge, then you must do it." Although the war wound has slowed him down, the moon-faced Renior maintains his work schedule.

Oronoko's Building Hiked By Andrews

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Oronoko township building permits for 1974 more than doubled the 1973 totals.

In 1974, permits involving $4,255,429 in construction were issued compared with permits covering $2,117,190 in 1973.

However, the entire difference was involved in two permits issued to Andrews university in Berrien Springs, one for $1.2 million for a library addition and a second to Berrien Enterprises, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Andrews, for $1.2 million for a shopping center on US-31.

A third permit to Andrews for $250,000 for a maintenance building made the total Andrews building projects for the year $2.7 million.

An additional permit to National Mobile Concrete corporation for $39,800 made the total permits issued for business buildings $2.5 million more than the preceding year's $152,379.20. The 1973 total was for warehouse and storage buildings for area contractors and industries.

The number and value of private home permits decreased about 20 per cent between the two years. In 1974, 31 permits for private residences totaling $894,000 were issued. In 1973, the totals were 43 residences and $1,194,000.

Permits for apartments also declined. Four permits were issued in 1974 totaling $285,000 for 18 total apartment units. In 1973 the figures were three permits for 56 total apartment units at a total value of $576,000.

Permits for remodeling were $238,629 in 1974 and $194,611 in 1973.

SHOPPING CENTER SWELLS TOTAL: One major reason 1974 building permits in Oronoko township doubled 1973 permits was this partially-completed shopping center being built by Berrien Enterprises, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Andrews university in Berrien Springs. Delays in blacktop work and delivery of structural steel will postpone opening of center until May. (Kermit Netteburg photo)

Comedian Ruff Television Guest

Jimmy Ruff, Benton Harbor native comedian, will be the guest on the "A.M. Michiana" television show on channel 28 from Elkhart, Ind., 9:30 a.m., Tuesday.

Ruff, who has been lecturing to church groups, schools and social functions in the area, will present a "Dick Gregory" style lecture discussing drugs, crime and the Youth Service Bureau of Berrien county. Ruff, who attended Benton Harbor schools, is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Smith, 382 Park street. He currently lives at Berrien Homes apartments, 1835 Council drive, Benton township.

Big Art Theft In Milan

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Twenty-eight paintings by French and Italian impressionists were stolen during the night from the modern art gallery of Milan's Municipal Museum, police reported today.

It was Italy's second major art theft this month. Three priceless Renaissance paintings by Raphael and Piero della Francesca were stolen on Feb. 5 from the Ducal Palace in Urbino and are still missing.

Police said the total value of the paintings stolen from the Milan museum was estimated at $1.5 million. They included works by Renoir, Cezanne, Gauguin, Van Gogh, Bonnard, Corot and the Italians Fattori, Segantini and Boccioni.

MARRIAGE RATE RISES

Swedes Turn More Conservative

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — In a country that raced through the sexual revolution, women's lib, and social reforms before the rest of the world caught on, people took note of the night this winter when Swedish student radicals held their annual dinner in black tie. It seemed to be an effort by the outcast student radicals to grab onto what looks like a remarkable trend among Swedish youth toward conservatism, in politics and life-style.

Highlighting this trend is the fact that conservatives have taken over student politics in Sweden and have placed one of their men at the head of the National Union of Students. At the same time, there seems to be a return to older traditions in the way young people are running their lives.

The couple is back. After a long period of disinterest, the Swedish Statistics Institute now says that marriages are increasing for the first time in several years, while the average marrying age is dropping for both men and women as it did in the '50s.

Statistically, marriages increased from 19.3 per thousand for the January-June period, 1974 to 31.6 per thousand during the June-September period, 1974.

During the last decade the age of marriage fell from 26.3 to 26.6 for men and from 25.8 to 24.4 for women.

Short hair, tweed jackets and ties are everywhere and skirts have pushed pants out of fashion. Promiscuity seems to have lost its appeal and venereal disease, a major problem among young people here during the early '70s, has dropped by about a third in four years.

COUNSELING SERVICE: Lou Burdick (left) and Rene Fischman, Benton Harbor, have opened a new personal counseling service called "Counseling Associates," with offices in the Unitarian church, 601 Main street, St. Joseph. Both women received their master's degrees in guidance and counseling from Western Michigan University. Both are professionally employed at the women's center of Lake Michigan College where they teach "women awareness" and "couples communication" classes. (Staff Photo)

Retired Educator Carves New Career

ALLEGAN — L.E. White, who retired in 1970 from Allegan school district after 38 years as a school administrator and educator, is literally "carving out" a new career for himself.

"Budd" White is turning a woodworking hobby into a full-time occupation.

White Allegan schools superintendent when he retired, and his wife Jean, a former school teacher, have both become interested in making useful and decorative things from wood. He began his carving two years ago.

"We had purchased a small woodcarving of a snowglobe on one of our trips into Canada, and Jean had it sitting on the windowsill in the kitchen. I've looked at it for sometime, picking it up occasionally, all the while thinking to myself, it might be fun to try carving one like it." And so he did. The little snowglobe on the top shelf of his collection became the first of a long line of wood carvings.

"Budd" uses Bass wood for most of his pieces. It is a soft, light colored wood, with a fine grain, that does not split. He first makes a pattern of his idea on graph paper then traces it onto the wood. Most of his carvings are laminated. For instance, the tail and each wing have been added to the body, but it is impossible to discern on the finished product.

His pieces are done mostly with "excalo" and jack knife, then painted with either acrylics or watercolor. That's where Jean comes in.

"She is my color coordinator" says "Budd".

He uses pictures from books for the colors but Jean, who has a good eye for hues and tones, has the final say. The legs and feet are made of copper wire. A small pin is usually attached to the bottom of the feet and then pushed into driftwood for mounting.

An entire corner of the White basement has been set aside for storage of the driftwood pieces collected by the Whites and their friends for mounting carvings. One massive chunk of driftwood has been designated for an eagle that "Budd" hopes to bring working on soon. He usually makes several copies of his carvings, some to sell and some as gifts for friends and relatives, but the eagle will surely be one of a kind.

Besides making birds, "Budd" also makes jewelry from Sumac, a greenish colored wood, with a very distinctive grain. He has also done a bear and several human figures. Like the Swiss peasant couple, beautifully detailed in old style Swiss costume. The old man sitting on a log is a copy of a carving, also purchased in Canada. A wall plaque of geese in flight adorns the wall of their study. A subscription to the National Woodcarvers Magazine, Chip Carvers, provides "Budd" with patterns and ideas for future projects.

"The woodcarvers are like a brotherhood," says Jean "They are very helpful to each other, and we never come away from one without learning something."

The White basement is a hazy-dyman's dream, complete with work bench, carving tools, power saws and wood stacked along the walls, but they spend seven months of the year in their cabin on Lake Huron, where they are kept busy with fishing, gardening and beekeeping.

"Budd" and Jean White came to Allegan in 1954 from Boyne City. He came here as superintendent of schools, a position he held until his retirement in 1970.

In 1971 the Allegan board of education named the new L.E. White Jr., high in his honor, the first time an Allegan school has been named for an individual in 100 years. White is still an active member of the county board of health.

The Whites hope to eventually have enough carvings stockpiled to place them in shops for sale and possibly travel the art fair circuit. They will travel to Minneapolis this spring for a seminar and classes in woodcarving.

Since 1947 the Arab states have refused to accept the legitimacy of a Jewish nation in the former Palestine Mandate. In 1947 the United Nations, with full agreement by both the United States and the Soviet Union, voted to partition Palestine into a Jewish and a Palestinian Arab state. The Jewish Agency, the quasi-official organization, which represented Jewish interests, accepted partition. The Arab states refused. When the British Army pulled out in the spring of 1948, officially ending the Mandate, the Jews established Israel in perfectly legitimate fulfillment of a B.N. decision. The Arab states invaded, determined to drive the Jews into the sea.

The Israelis made the mistake of winning, an event that has created difficulties over since 1947. Moreover, exercising the right of victors they took over some of the territory originally assigned by the UN to the Arabs — particularly the Negev. About 600,000 Palestinian Arabs fled, creating the refugee problem. Probably 700,000 Jews escaped from Arab states in Israel with little but the shirts on their backs. This did not create a refugee problem. (Editorial: Various Jewish groups had to "buy" the Jews out of Yemen and other states, which set outrageous prices for exit visas — at least in Palestine.)

Israel refused to permit any resettlement effort on behalf of the poor souls who had fled during the war. Nor would they discuss the matter with a "non-existent" Israel.

Excuse me for sounding caustic, but note that since 1947 there has been an undiminished pattern of Arab aggression. Israel never wanted to become the Sparta of the Middle East, but the lesson of the Yom Kippur war was stark: Never let down your guard for a minute. The Israelis are not paranoid — paranoia is the illusion of persecution.

Take the question of recognizing the Palestine Liberation Organization: Various spokesmen for this organization have assured us that they will act in a reasonable fashion, and one is tempted to say, "How nice." There he realizes that acting in a reasonable fashion means not blowing up airplanes!

Besides, the PLO is obviously working a split-level political warfare scenario. The same Arafat, who in New York seemed almost to say there might be a possible way for Jews and Arabs to live together in peace, plays a different record elsewhere.

Freedom Will Cost Tuna Men $3 Million

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fines and cargos amounting to nearly $3 million will be given to Ecuador in exchange for the release of 100 American tuna fishermen, held for three weeks, an industry spokesman says.

The fishermen were aboard seven San Diego-based tuna boats seized by Ecuadorian gunboats Jan. 24 for violating the Latin American country's controversial 200-mile fishing limit. The United States recognizes only a 12-mile limit.

Fruit Pickers Hunting Jobs

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Current hard times have sent a surplus of would-be fruit pickers into citrus fields, and officials say the growers, in a move reminiscent of the Great Depression, are cutting wages. "I personally don't remember a time when we had this many people who wanted to pick. I guess a man out of work is willing to try anything," said Hal Schwicert of the Florida Office of Rural Manpower Services. "We've got labor running out of our ears."

Rail Crash Kills

At Least 16

POTCHEFSTROOM, South Africa (AP) — A passenger train from Cape Town and a freight train collided at nearby Crescent early today, killing at least 16 persons and injuring 44, railway officials announced.

Railway officials began an investigation into the cause of the accident.

Policeman Shot

DETROIT (AP) — Police officer Gordon Jackson, 23, was hospitalized in good condition after he was shot in the face Sunday with a saved-off shotgun. Police said a 23-year-old Detroit man was being held prisoner in Detroit General Hospital on attempted murder charges. Jackson was wounded in an alley at 4 a.m. Sunday.

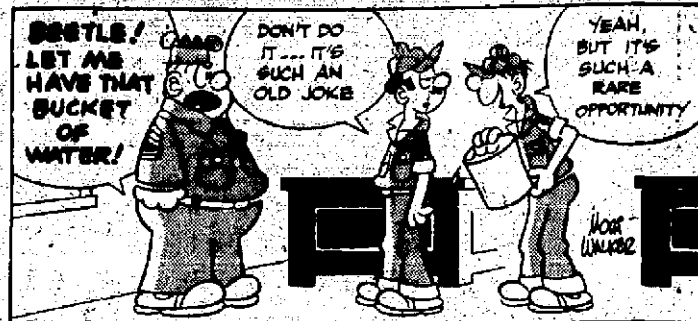

Dean Goes On Despite Threats

ONEONTA, N.Y. (AP) — Former White House lawyer John Dean delivered his scheduled speech before a college audience here Sunday evening in spite of two threats against his life.

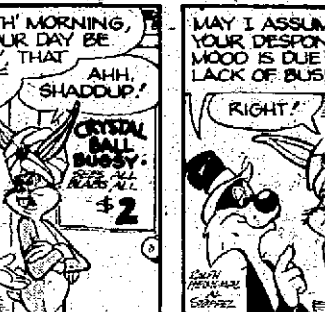

The threats were made in separate telephone calls to the Oneonta Star newspaper. Each caller told the newspaper that Dean was to be shot, the newspaper reported.

Dean's speech at State University College at Oneonta was marked by some booing and hissing from the audience, but no incidents were reported.

Emergency Forms Are Available

Van Buren farmers who suffered crop losses in 1974 because of bad weather can pick up applications for emergency loans at the county Farmers Home Administration office, 303 Paw Paw street, Paw Paw.
A meeting on this subject for Cass farmers will be held Feb. 25 at 8 p.m. in the Eastgate building, M-60, Cassopolis.
The program will be explained to Berrien farmers during a meeting Feb. 20 at 1:30 p.m. at the Youth Memorial building, Berrien Springs.
William J. Gregor, Van Buren county FHA supervisor, said the loan designation is based on 1974 crop losses caused by a wet spring, summer drought and fall freeze. Yield reduction, when converted to dollars, must represent at least 10 per cent of the gross farm income.
Earlier this month several Michigan counties were declared eligible for emergency loans by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

IRAN BUYS INTO PAN-AM: Concluding months of negotiations, United States Sunday approved a complex agreement under which Iran would come to aid of financially-troubled Pan American Airways. Iran's Ambassador Ardeshir Zahedi, left, said agreement would allow Iran to acquire 13 per cent of Pan Am's stocks. Commerce Undersecretary John K. Labor, right, put final touches on negotiations in Tehran last week. (AP Wirephoto)

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Rain is forecast Monday for the eastern third of the nation with snow flurries expected for the Great Lakes. Snow flurries are forecast for the northern and western Plains and part of the Southwest. Rain is forecast for southern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle. Warmer weather is expected for the East and Northwest and colder weather elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map)

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

EXPENSES CONNECTED WITH YOUR JOB

Millions of you who are employed or self-employed professionals must take on several commonplace expenses — merely in order to be able to earn your incomes. Various rulings by the Internal Revenue Service and the courts gave you both good and bad news in 1974 — some of the rulings of truly vital importance. Specifically:

- (1) If, in order to hold your job, you must incur certain household and other expenses for care of your dependent child under the age of 15 — or for the care of your disabled spouse or other disabled dependents — you may be able to deduct up to $400 a month of these expenses from your 74 income tax return. Among the most common of these expenses is pay for a housekeeper or other assistance within your household.
You very well might forget, though, that you can include not only the pay you give your household employee but also your share of the Social Security payroll taxes you pay this employee. In a 1974 ruling, the IRS underlined that this child or dependent care deduction includes both the wages you pay for the housekeeper or similar person you employ in your household and your share of the payroll taxes that you pay on this employee's wages. It is far from an insignificant amount these days.
- (2) In our extremely mobile society, you may be among the millions who often take a temporary job away from home. Under the tax law, you are allowed to deduct the cost of traveling to and from the temporary job location and the cost of your meals and lodging while living at this temporary location.
Another part of the tax law allows you, an individual moving to a new principal place of work, to deduct the cost of moving yourself, your household goods and your family to the new place.
Last year, the Sixth Circuit agreed with the Tax Court and the IRS that where you are properly entitled to deduct your own travel, meal and lodging expenses because you are considered only temporarily away from home, you cannot also be entitled to deduct moving expenses for your family and household goods. It would be inconsistent for you to be allowed moving expenses to a new principal place of business when at the same time you are allowed travel, meal and lodging expenses on the basis that you have only a temporary job at that place.

(3) If you are a professional person who takes courses to qualify for various specialties, you received both good and bad news from the IRS last year. The existing Treasury regulations are vague about the precise circumstances under which you, a professional, are entitled to deduct the cost of studying for a specialty in your own major field.
If your studies sharpen your skills, you can deduct the cost; if they go further and qualify you for a new field, you can't deduct the cost. The regulations give as an illustration of deductible education, a psychiatrist's cost for a program of study that qualifies him to practice psychoanalysis, because that program does not qualify him for an entirely new field.
In 1974, the question arose whether a dentist engaged in general practice could deduct the cost of a full-time post-graduate study of orthodontics in dental school, which he made possible by limiting his own general practice to a part-time basis. The IRS ruled that he could deduct the cost of these studies even though, after finishing his studies, he restricted his practice to orthodontic patients.
(4) But the IRS and the Tax Court take a much tougher view when it comes to qualifying for a CPA status within the accounting profession.
In a 1974 case, an accountant who was a licensed accountant in his state, but not a CPA, spent about $900 for a review course in preparation for taking the CPA examination. He argued that the expense of this course was deductible because it was intended to qualify him for a specialty within the accounting profession and not for a new field. But the Tax Court agreed with the IRS to bar a deduction for the accountant's course.
Under the law of the state involved, the significant difference in scope and practice of the two separately licensed groups (licensed accountants and CPAs) made the two activities different trades or businesses. The course therefore would help the individual prepare for a new business rather than for a specialty within the same business. The lines in the whole area are still smudged, cautions Leon Gold, chief tax expert of the Research Institute of America, so proceed on taking these deductions with utmost care.

Forage Beef Coming?

By MARY SCHEIER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State University researchers are on their way to perfecting a method of producing beef entirely on forages rather than premium grain feed, one expert says.

"We've been feeding cattle to slaughter weight on silage rations for 10 years. Our work indicates the cattle taste just as good as grain-fed cattle," said Dan Fox, animal husbandry professor at MSU.

"We think we know enough about it, with some further research," he said.

"In Michigan, Minnesota, the Dakotas and lots of areas of the corn belt the corn grain doesn't always ripen because of the weather. If you have a drought or an early frost, you always have some grain like that. It's not easy to harvest it and utilize it but you can silo it," Fox explained.

The deciding factor on whether the country switches to feeding cattle silage instead of grain, Fox said, is economics.

"If Russia is willing to buy our grain, then I think we will shift towards producing our feed on forage. We simply have not concentrated on it because the economics have not justified it."

"If the world demand stays good for our feed grains, we'll develop the technology to produce beef on all forage diets," he added.

There are some problems that will have to be overcome, Fox said. "The large feed lots that have developed simply cannot purchase and handle the huge volume of forage necessary," he said.

"But I can take grain from Iowa and load it on a train or truck and ship it. It doesn't take near as many pounds as it does for the less digestible silage. Grain is a concentrated form of energy that can be shipped long distance."

Fox said corn is the major feed grain for cattle. "It does need supplementation for human diets, in general it needs supplementation and processing. The sorghum grains, milo, are not as highly digestible as the others, and the protein quality I don't think is quite as good."

"All of these require some processing and supplementation to be used by humans and are not as palatable as meat or milk. But they are food."

Mattress Fire Sends 3 Jail Inmates To Hospital

Berrien sheriff's officers said a jail inmate allegedly set fire to his cell mattress Sunday in protest of his visiting privileges being revoked. The fire sent three other inmates to Berrien General hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation.

The fire occurred in a cell occupied by George Dunn, 19, of 805 Wells avenue, Benton township. Officers said Dunn is jailed on a charge of breaking and entering. His visiting privileges had been revoked as a disciplinary measure.

St. Joseph firemen were called to eject smoke from the east side of the second floor of the jail. Inmates in that wing were transferred to other cells.

Edison Wants Rate Hike

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Detroit Edison Co. will ask the state Public Service Commission for another rate increase, possibly as early as next month. Company officials, including President William Meese, said Friday they hope to be able to file a rate case with the commission sometime in March. On Feb. 3, the utility was granted the biggest increase in its history, a $88.1 million boost. Company executives said their request will be a "sizeable one," but they refused to discuss specific amounts because they said they still are preparing data. Meese said the company must have further rate relief in order to improve its earnings so it can raise money through stock and bond sales to build new plants. The utility's construction program is at a virtual standstill, officials said.

Five Are Arrested Following Disturbance In South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN — Five people were arrested as the result of a disturbance at a South Haven home in which a city police officer allegedly was assaulted early Saturday.

City police said the officer was assaulted while answering a complaint filed by a resident regarding loud noises at 220 Clinton street shortly after 2 a.m. when the fracas occurred.

Officer James Swisher said he was waiting inside the house for additional police to arrive when he was confronted by two men and a fight ensued.

Dana Classen, 20, route 3, South Haven, and Brian Lokers, 21, 220 Clinton street, were arrested on charges of assaulting a police officer and possessing marijuana.

Classen was treated at South Haven Community hospital for a head injury he suffered in the incident, police said.

Swisher suffered neck and head injuries but did not require medical attention.

Police said three other persons inside the house were also arrested.

Arrested on charges of possessing marijuana were Albert Newell, 20, 668 Cherry street, South Haven; Gerald Byrd, 20, route 5, South Haven; and Mrs. Denise Classen, 19, route 5, South Haven.

City officers said they were assisted by troopers from the South Haven state police post and officers from the Bangor and Covert departments in restoring order.

Police said a small plastic bag containing suspected marijuana was found in the residence.

First LMC Saturday Classes Experiment Termed Success

The beginning of Saturday classes at Lake Michigan college last Saturday showed 177 students enrolled and 20 classes in full operation.

Dr. Richard Creal, vice president for instruction, said the size of the enrollment made the experiment a success.

He said that when the "Saturday Semester" was first conceived, an enrollment of 100 persons and 10 classes was regarded as a goal.

The enrollment may go even higher, he indicated, because registration in the Saturday classes will remain open until the second session of the classes next Saturday. Information on classes that are open for enrollment is available by contacting the LMC admissions office.

At the same time, LMC officials announced that this week is the deadline for persons to enroll in a series of short courses being offered by the Community Services department of the school. These courses will meet in their second sessions this week and enrollments will be accepted up until class time.

The class nights for the various courses are:

Monday — Advanced Cake Decoration; Beginning Yoga;

Tuesday — Pilots Ground School; Basic Cooking; Folk Guitar II; Polynesian Dance; Beginning Conversational Spanish; First Aid.

Wednesday — Real Estate Fundamentals; Basic Photography; Astrology.

Thursday — Metaphysical Prosperity; folk Guitar I; Metrically Speaking; How to Catch Big Fish Close to Home.

Registration deadlines for several courses starting later are: March 1, Recreational Vehicle Repair; March 17, Belly Dancin'; April 7, Advanced Cooking.

AREA POLICE ROUNDUP

Street Light Vandalism Leads To Pair's Arrest

Benton Harbor police officers arrested two youths on various charges early today after investigating complaints that street lights were being shot out.

Set, David Tiefenbach said a car was stopped at Townline road and Yore avenue, Benton and Sodus townships, after several street lights had been shot out.

Tiefenbach said the driver of the car, Robert Harold Burkett, 18, Blue Creek road, Benton township, was booked on charges of possessing an unlicensed rifle, possession of marijuana, possession of open intoxicants and furnishing intoxicants to a minor.

A passenger, Frank David, 17, of 586 Highland avenue, Benton Harbor, was booked on charges of possession of marijuana and minor in possession of intoxicants.

St. Joseph police arrested a 17-year-old youth shortly after a car rammed and broke a fire hydrant on Niles avenue near Kingsley before 5 a.m. Saturday.

Charged with unlawfully driving away an auto was Benny Battice, 17, of 1005 Harrison street, St. Joseph.

Police said Battice later Saturday demanded a preliminary examination when arraigned before Fifth District Judge Leo Cook. Bond was set at $2,000.

Patrolman Dennis Soucek discovered the accident while investigating large amounts of water in the street. A check of the auto determined it was owned by Kelvin Eversole of 719 Jones, St. Joseph. Police stated Eversole was asleep when officers went to his home, and reported he was unaware the car was missing.

Battice was arrested at his home, after officers followed foot tracks in the snow.

Benton Harbor police reported burglars cooked hamburger, slept in a bed and stole property valued at $402 from the home of Viola Burton, 426 South Fair avenue, in one of several break-ins reported over the weekend.

Police said a gold ring, a silver necklace, a record player and record albums were among the loot taken in the Saturday night burglary at the Fair avenue house.

Other thefts reported to Benton Harbor police:

—A stereo valued at $100 from the home of Jewel Parks, 352 Lincoln avenue.

—Coffee tables, end tables and other furniture valued at a total of $447 from the home of Theodore Banks, 1296 Vincent court.

Robert Watson, 49, Meadowbrook road, Pipestone township, was stabbed on the neck Saturday afternoon when he became involved in a quarrel, Berrien sheriff's officers reported.

Deputies said the stabbing occurred at a house on Burkett street, Sodus township. Seven other people in the house were questioned and released. Watson was admitted to Mercy hospital.

Benton Harbor police arrested seven juveniles and two young men Sunday after a vacant public housing apartment on South McCord street was vandalized.

Charles Diggs, 17, of 675 Buss avenue, and Michael Lee Byers, 18, of 665 Vineyard, were charged with entering without permission and with contributing to the delinquency of minors. Both were booked and released on bond, police reported.

Seven juveniles ranging in age from 12 to 15 were released to their parents.

Police said holes were punched in most of the apartment walls and door frames were broken.

A man and a woman were arrested early today after about eight people joined in a brawl at the Office Lounge, 295 Territorial road, Benton Harbor police said.

Booked and lodged on a charge of being a disorderly person was JoAnn Pierce, 17, of 608½ Green street, police said.

Amos Peterson, 40, of the Harbor Hotel, 209 Territorial road, was booked and lodged on a charge of obstructing a police officer.

Police reported the fight started after an argument between two women. Friends and relatives of both women joined in, police said.

Benton Harbor police shortly before noon Sunday arrested a 18-year-old boy in connection with a reported theft of a pickup truck in Benton township Saturday.

Police said the truck was stopped in the K-Mart lot, and about a half-dozen youths were riding in the back. The truck was reported stolen at 9:15 a.m. Saturday from Curly's used car sales lot, 700 M-139.

Benton Harbor police said the driver, 16, of Benton Harbor, was to be booked on a charge of concealing and possessing stolen property, over $100. Benton township police said they planned to seek a charge of unlawfully driving away an auto.

Police said the truck matched the description of a vehicle used by three juveniles who snatched the purse of a Benton Harbor woman.

Three youths reportedly walked up behind Ann Brant, 47, of 489 Broadway, and snatched a purse containing $20, a check book and credit cards. The purse snatching occurred at 9:55 a.m. Police said the thieves fled in a pickup truck.

WARHOL: Skull-draggery.

Andy Warhol Believes Amateurish Is Better

Q: Why was the Andy Warhol Broadway musical such a flop? I couldn't believe my eyes. — C.V. Riverdale, N.Y.

A: "Man in the Moon," written by John (Mamas and Papas) Phillips for his talented wife, Genevieve Waite was a typical product of the Warhol Factory mentality. Andy and director Paul Morrissey believe that the more amateurish a thing is, the better it is. They even put on the musical without the services of a choreographer.

Q: I saw the blonde woman agent for the stars being interviewed on television. Can you tell me her name again? Also it didn't say anything about her private life. If she isn't married maybe she'd like to meet a good-looking future movie star — me! — W.W. Altoona, Pa.

A: You're welcome to try your luck with Sue Mengers, Hollywood's top agent and hostess. But she is happily married to screenwriter Jean Claude Truitt. (He wrote Liz Taylor's "Ash Wednesday.")

Q: I just finished that wonderful novel "Fear of Flying" and would like to know if Erica Jong is married and how does she feel about being called the best of the new crop of women novelists? — L.I. Easton, Md.

A: Last week our answer would have been an upper; this week it's a downer. Erica has just left her psychiatrist husband and, worse, we hear fame has gone to her pretty head. She seems to have turned away from all of her loyal old friends and wants to be treated now as a superstar.

Q: I read that Rockefeller went down to Washington in his private plane from Tarrytown, N.Y., to take over his duties as Vice President. What did that cost the taxpayers? — W.T. Burlington, Vt.

A: The VP was repaid 20 cents per mile for his flight as he went on the Federal payroll (at $62,500 a year plus $10,000 expenses).

Q: You mentioned Lynn Redgrave recently, but I'd like to know about her sister Vanessa. Is she married and a housewife somewhere? — G.D., Enid, Okla.

A: Vanessa, a housewife? Never! She's in California now using ex-husband Tony Richardson's house. But, best of all, she's rekindled an old romance with Franco Nero, the father of her son Carlo. As to marriage, friends are saying maybe she and Franco will do it. We wouldn't bet any money.

however, Vanessa is what they used to call flighty.

DIVORCE OF THE WEEK: Expect fireworks when Dr. Lee Salk, the famous child psychiatrist and brother of Jonas Salk, meets his wife in the divorce court late this month. Both want to keep the two children, the Manhattan townhouse, and the island in Maine. Each one has been trying to get friends to come to court and testify on what a rotter the other is.

What's so good about the "good old days"? There was no sugar till the 13th century; no tea till the 14th; no butter till the 15th; no tobacco or potatoes until the 16th; no tea, coffee or soap until the 18th; no trains, telegrams, gas, matches or chloroform until the 19th. Our confusing language: staid, stayed, made, weighed. Item for a lull-in-conversation: "Australian aborigines are free from tooth decay as long as they live on their native diet but have dental troubles as soon as they

national engineers week

SPONSORED BY: NATIONAL SOCIETY OF PROFESSIONAL ENGINEERS

Professor James P. Kohn To Speak To Area High School Students

James P. Kohn, Professor of Chemical Engineering at the University of Notre Dame College of Engineering, will speak to area high school students at a banquet Wednesday, February 19, 1975. The banquet is sponsored by the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph chapter of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers and southwestern Michigan industries. The banquet is to give area high school students an opportunity to learn about engineering as a profession and meet some local engineers from industry, government and private practice. The banquet will be held at Lake Michigan College cafeteria.

Professor Kohn will speak on the theme for Engineers' Week - "Engineering... Exploring New Energy Frontiers". He will have some slides as part of his talk and presentation.

Professor Kohn attended high school in Indianapolis, Indiana. He has received degrees in Dp. E. from the University of Wisconsin, B.S. in Chemical Engineering from the University of Notre Dame, M.S. in Chemical Engineering from the University of Michigan, and Ph. D. in Chemical Engineering from the University of Kansas.

Professor Kohn has worked as a Chemical Engineer at Reilly Tar & Chemical Corporation, Assistant Professor, Associate Professor and Professor of Chemical Engineering at Notre Dame. He has been the Director of the High Pressure Laboratory of the Department of Chemistry and currently is the Research Supervisor Atomic Energy Commission Radiation Laboratory, and creator and director of the Solar Energy Laboratory for Thermal Applications Data at Notre Dame.

Professor Kohn has published forty articles in the fields of heterogeneous phase equilibria, applied thermodynamics, thermophysical properties of matter and cryogenic engineering.

Professor Kohn has twenty-six patents, his most notable being a co-inventor in 1954 of the cryogenic process for liquifying natural gas while simultaneously removing carbon dioxide and hydrogen sulfide from it. This process is being operated by CONCH International Methane, Inc. and leads to ocean shipment of liquified natural gas in cryogenic tankers.

Prior to the speech the students will be treated to a dinner sponsored by area industries. They will also have a tour of area industries and view displays at Lake Michigan college. Students are also able to participate in an Energy Utilization Engineering Contest where they will build racing cars to compete longest run, and an Energy Conservation Essay Contest. Both are sponsored by the Benton Harbor - St. Joseph Society of Professional Engineers, with cash prizes.

HEATHKIT®-engineering for growth

For more than a quarter-century Heath engineers—men in shirt sleeves at design benches—have been calculating, building, testing. Engineering the growth of a company in the complex world of electronics. Engineering the growth of the unique idea of do-it-yourself electronic kits.

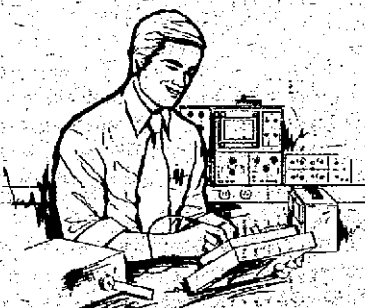

In 1947, an engineering staff of two designed the first Heathkit product. Today, Heath has 85 engineers who have designed the present line of more than 350 different kits.

The Heath engineering groups, their members, and their growth are shown below. Their direction is provided by J. Lee, VP-Engineering/Operations; R. Freridge, Director of Engineering; C. Gilmore, Manager of Design Engineering-Technical Products; and L. Grover, Manager of Design Engineering-Consumer Products.

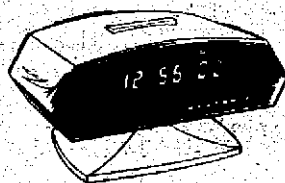

Instruments Engineering. Heath's first kit was a test instrument—an oscilloscope. It was designed by two men. Today there are eighteen men divided into two instrument engineering groups. One, headed by M. Rockwell, designs indicating instruments; the other, directed by T. Yeager, develops generating instruments. The instrument line today totals over one hundred models including both kit and factory assembled versions. The instrument engineering staff includes J. Alves, H. Archer, R. Ashton, L. Bailey, N. Beneditz, L. Collier, W. Cubbage, R. Haigh, L. Hiltgen, S. Lall, T. Leighton, H. Myers, D. Poulson, E. Taylor, L. Unger, R. White.

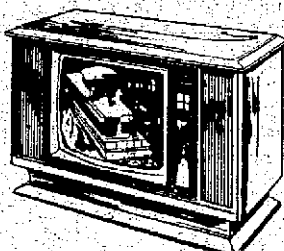

Audio Engineering. In 1952 one man engineered Heath's first true high fidelity amplifier kit. Now, eleven men engineer its extensive line of stereo and 4-channel components which has grown to fifty different models of receivers, amplifiers, tuners, speakers and accessories. D. Thomas directs H. Banick, J. Bruss, O. Dehn, W. Griffin, E. Harris, J. Kessler, D. Klauack, R. Peever, W. Schewe, R. Williams.

Engineering Services/Evaluation. Originally each engineer performed the functions now offered by this group. Those functions include component analysis, drafting, value analysis, and styling. The staff of eleven, headed by W. Kooy, includes D. Baldridge, D. Buzalski, R. Nelson, J. Park, C. Shine, S. Sizer, P. Thielan, F. Thomson, J. Tolsma, H. Zelmer.

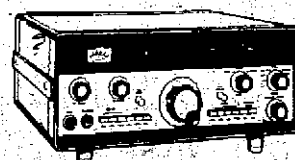

General Engineering. In 1949, one man engineered the first Heathkit consumer product, a broadcast receiver. Thirteen men now engineer a broad array of consumer products including radios, intercoms, digital clocks, weather instruments, marine electronics, etc., totaling nearly one hundred basic models and accessories. L. Houghton directs R. Brahman, G. Covert, M. Gaishin, C. Goy, R. Hall, B. Heyning, D. Hornback, K. Kuhlman, D. Plangger, M. Thomsen, D. Tremblay, B. Trump.

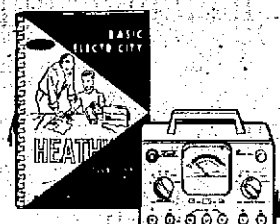

Television Engineering. In 1962 two men engineered the first TV kit. Today, eight men engineer a comprehensive line of color and black & white TV kits comprised of nine basic models plus cabinet variations and accessories including the world's first digital design color TV. The group, directed by R. Brockway, includes S. Barton, B. Lange, R. Lechner, J. Ludlam, J. Maldups, I. Mertes, N. Strohl.

Production Engineering. The engineers who make it all happen after the design engineers have finished. Devising production line techniques, and not just for normal assembly processes, but also for the unique aspects of kit production...special packaging, sequences, and testing of processes. The group of ten, directed by B. Lieberg, includes B. Atkins, M. Blase, O. Cook, R. Devens, H. Eich, R. Herron, M. Rapp, R. Rutz, J. Zeir.

Communications Engineering. This design group has grown from one engineer and one product in 1952 to a staff of eight with a product line of more than seventy-five models for amateur radio operators and shortwave listeners. Directed by M. Elliott, the staff includes J. Cooperider, D. Evans, R. Fernau, R. Knapp, T. Perdue, R. Renken, J. Smiley.

Educational Engineering. In 1959 Heath introduced its first educational kit, but only recently a specialized group was formed to pursue the development of such products. L. Frenzel directs D. Bonham and T. Dukes.

Quality Assurance Engineering. One of the largest groups in the company...analyzing, checking, testing...incoming parts, production output, and every step between...helping prove Heath customers get more than their money's worth. Direction by W. Hannah; supervision by J. Olson.

On February 19th, the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Chapter of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers is providing an opportunity for high school students in Southwestern Michigan to learn more about engineering as a possible profession. Through the cooperation of area companies, the Chapter will provide tours of companies, engineering displays and an opportunity to interact with practicing engineers at the Engineers' Week Banquet held at Lake Michigan College. If you have a son or daughter interested in engineering, have them contact their high school guidance counselor to participate in the program.

Energy Utilization Engineering Contest

4:45-6:00 p.m.

Sponsored by the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Chapter of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers

2nd prize - $20.00

Objective

Judging

4:45 to 6:00 p.m. before the Engineers' Week banquet, February 19th at LMC. To be eligible, you must be a student and must attend the Engineers' Week tours and banquet. The winners will be determined as those entrants who can build a vehicle to go the longest distance on level ground, in a straight line, given 60 seconds, from the starting line. Entrants must use the power source and materials supplied.

Power Source

The rubber band supplied by the society is the vehicle power source, and any driving means may be used (propeller, wheels, etc.) with the exception of using the rubber band in a sling-shot manner.

Materials

Only those in the kit provided by Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Chapter of MSPE. Any tools and glue may be used to work with these materials.

General

The car's owner releases the vehicle. Cars will be raced one at a time. Distance of travel will be measured to the portion of the vehicle closest to the starting line at its final resting place.

Energy Conservation Essay Contest

Sponsored by the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Chapter of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers

1st Prize - $30.00

2nd Prize - $20.00

Objective

To provide an opportunity for local area students to present essays on energy conservation concepts.

Format

The submitted essays are not to exceed 5000 words; they are to be typed with double spacing between the lines; they are to follow the accepted rules for essay presentation, and if equations are used, detailed manipulations are to appear in an appendix.

Judging

The essay contest judging will be in two phases:

Phase I

At each school, the students will submit their essays to their Science Club Advisor. The Advisor will select the best essay from the school and is to forward the essay by February 10 to:

Dr. Ronald Wolosewicz

Whirlpool Corporation

The Eliska Gray II Research & Engineering Center

Monte Road

Benton Harbor, Michigan 49022

Phase II

The essays received by February 12 will be judged a second time by a committee selected by the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers. The decision of judges will be final and the winners will be announced at the Engineers' Week banquet.

If in the opinion of the judges, none of the entries present new or unusual concepts, or if there are only two entries, the contest will be declared null and void. After the decision of the judges is announced at the Engineers' Week banquet, the essays will be returned to the participants.

Milliken Proclaims February 16-22 "Engineers Week"

On February 5, 1975 Governor William G. Milliken proclaimed February 16-22 as "ENGINEERS WEEK". Engineer's Week is being celebrated to make the public more aware of the role of engineers in solving problems in public health and safety, environment, energy, and industry. Activities during the week center around making area high school students more familiar with the engineering profession and to encourage the interest of students in pursuing engineering education and jobs.

The complete text of the proclamation signed by Milliken is as follows:

"William G. Milliken, Governor of the State of Michigan, presents this Executive Declaration in observance of February 16-22, 1975 as ENGINEER'S WEEK.

Although, in our modern society we are confronted by many complex problems, our immediate concern is directed toward the energy crisis. One group of people in the forefront of the search for a solution to this problem is Michigan's engineers -- many of whom are members of the Society of Professional Engineers.

Throughout our history engineers have used their skills to serve the public good. They have an impressive record of achievement in helping to build for the American people the highest standard of living and in contributing to the strength necessary to maintain our national security.

Today, individual engineers and the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers, a part of the National Society of Professional Engineers, are being called upon to use their leadership and guidance in order to meet the critical needs of Michigan citizens.

Therefore, I, William G. Milliken, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby urge all citizens to give appropriate recognition to the skilled and dedicated men and women engineers in our state, a profession which plays an increasingly important role in bringing about a better Michigan."

HATS OFF!! TO A TRULY IMPORTANT PROFESSION

Right now better use of energy is one of our nation's major goals. If it isn't accomplished in the near future we will rapidly lose the good lifestyle in existence today. To win this most difficult fight we must look for help from the ENGINEERS of today and the new technology to be developed by the ENGINEERS of tomorrow. Improvement in energy utilization and conservation must come from them.

Clark Michigan Mobile Sound Laboratory containing B&K 3rd Octave analyzer and associated instrumentation necessary for noise reduction research and development on Clark Michigan products. Clark's world wide market necessitates keeping abreast of national and international regulations.

Compliance noise testing of a Michigan 125B tractor shovel equipped with a special prototype package to reduce spectator noise. Development work is also being conducted to reduce operator station noise.

Close-up of prototype noise package indicates use of barriers to reflect noise back towards source and also occasional foam lining on barriers to absorb noise energy. Considerable effort is required in developing packages that allow proper cooling and are safe, reliable and economical.

This supplement is provided by the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Chapter of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers in cooperation with companies in the southwestern Michigan area. Our goal for ENGINEER'S WEEK- 1975 is to make you, the public, aware that good engineering may be one of the most important factors in relieving the present energy pinch. Whether it is applied to make our present energy conversion processes more efficient or to harness new sources of energy, engineering is exploring new energy frontiers.

The Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Chapter of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers would like to thank the following organizations for help in publishing this supplement:

APPLIANCE RECYCLING Saves Energy and Resources

More than twenty years ago, our company was founded in order to provide home laundry service parts at reasonable prices. In the "fifties" we repaired the parts. Today we "recycle" home laundry appliance controls for several major manufacturers and distributors. Regular communication with the engineers of these manufacturers and distributors has enabled us to incorporate new features in service products that lengthen the useful life of the appliance.

In order to achieve our nation's goal of U.S. energy self sufficiency by 1980, every avenue of conservation must be investigated. It is our goal to look at other areas for potential "recycling" in the appliance industry. With the technical assistance of the engineering departments of major appliance manufacturers, we hope to provide this type of program to more than home laundry users. With present material shortages and high costs, every effort to conserve our limited natural resources is important.

LMC...tooled up for teaching the technologies

Yes—we've moved into our new multi-million dollar technologies building. Students are now using the brand new equipment and machinery in the drafting and design, electronics, appliance service, automotive, general technical and technologies laboratories. Complete re-equipment of manufacturing technology and welding technology labs is proceeding as fast as delays in delivery of machines can be overcome.

LMC plans for an ever-growing program of one and two year technician training courses and pre-engineering college transfer courses to serve our area. If you need technical training (or if you employ someone who does), write LAKE MICHIGAN COLLEGE, 2755 E. Napier Ave., Benton Harbor, MI 49022. Or call 927-3571, Ext. 402.

Lake Michigan College's new Technologies Building opened for operation as the Second Semester began January 27. Why not arrange a visit?

CHALLENGING ENGINEERING

National Engineers Week offers the opportunity to recognize professional engineers exploring new energy frontiers.

As with most new frontiers, bridging the uncharted energy gap provides many challenges. There are energy challenges in nearly every phase of our home appliance business from product design, to material selection, fabricating and assembly, to distribution, and in the ultimate use by the consumer. Whirlpool's engineers accept these energy challenges as a basis for personal and professional growth.

Since we are on the threshold of this energy frontier, the challenge will be around for years in the future. Young, and progressive people anxious to accept this challenge are urged to investigate opportunities at Whirlpool during National Engineers Week ...

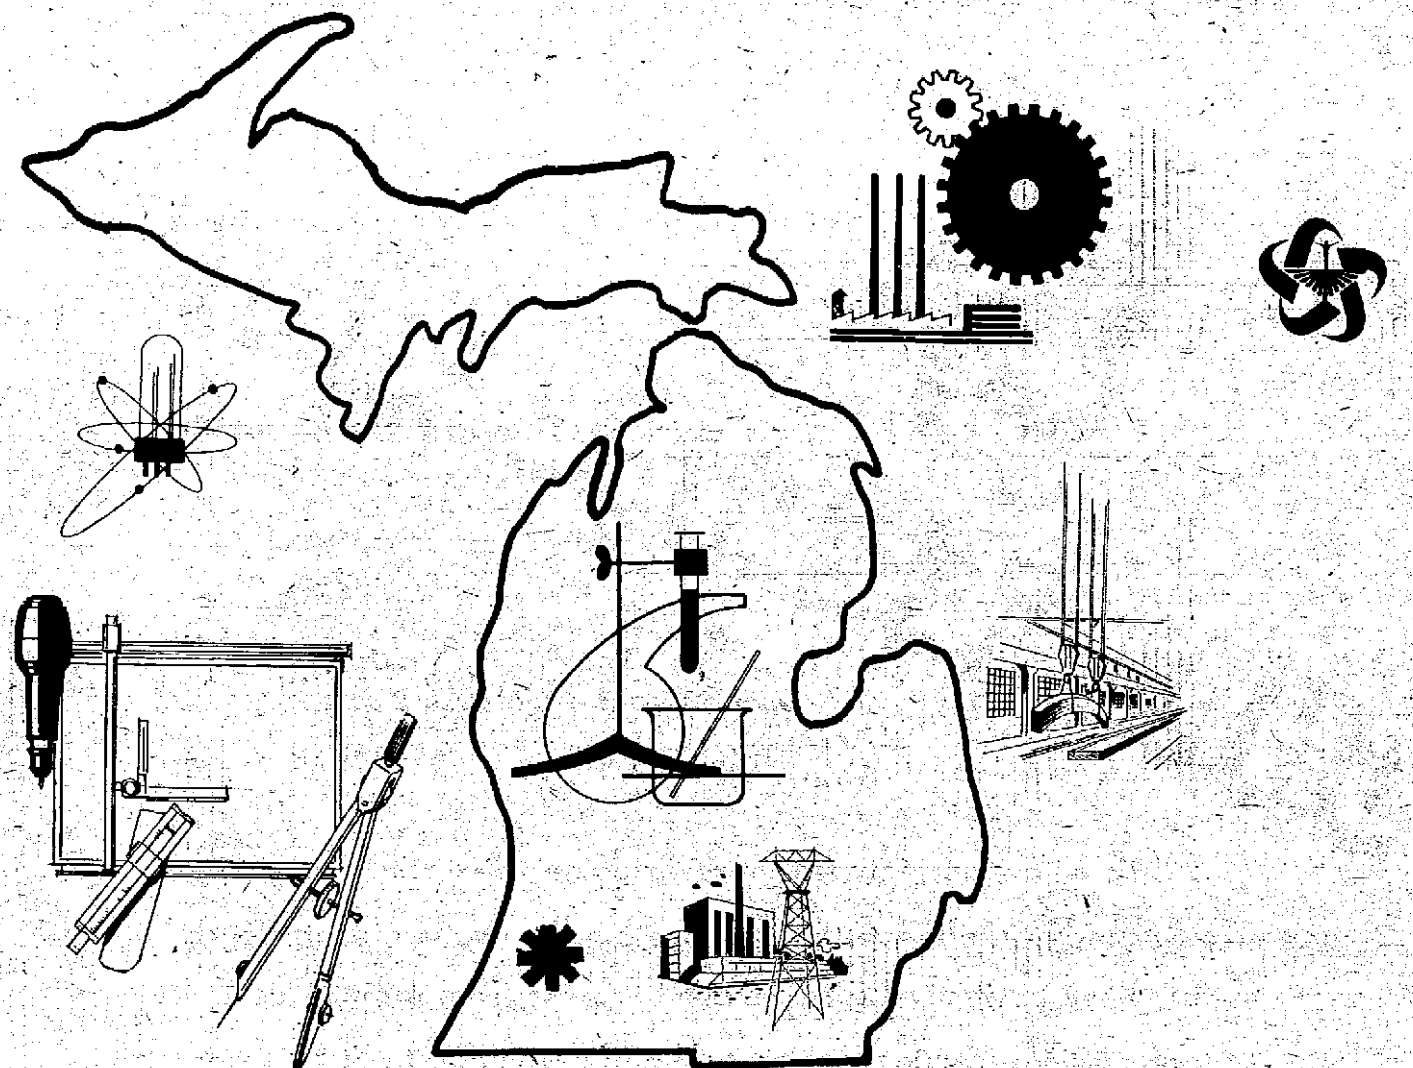

February 16-22.

THE ENGINEER'S CREED

As a professional engineer, I dedicate my professional knowledge and skill to the advancement and betterment of human welfare.

I PLEDGE:
To give the utmost of performance;
to participate in none but honest enterprise;
To live and work to the laws of man and the highest standards of professional conduct;

To place service before profit, the honor and standing of the profession before personal advantage, and the public welfare above all other considerations.

In humility and in need of Divine Guidance I make this pledge.

To participate in none but honest enterprise.
